Scrap on U. S. Policy Stirs All Europe

POWERS KEEP WATCHFUL EYE ON SITUATION

Outcome Seen Decisive Factor In Struggle of Democracies With Dictatorships.

HOOVER'S SPEECH WARNS

Ex-President Says Roosevelt Policy Threatens to Lead America to War.

(By United Press)

Europe tensely awaited outcome of United States congressional conflict over America's traditional isolationist policy today as a possibly decisive factor in the struggle between dictatorship and democracy.

For the moment at least the march of big European powers toward a show-down was halted in mid-stride by conflict in Washington over President Roosevelt's proposed aid to the democratic front formed by Great Britain and France—aid in the form of needed war planes or other materials.

Official Quarters Silent.

Official sources in London, Berlin, Paris and Rome were silent, but the press of Europe's "big four" spoke out with unusual vigor in an effort to take advantage of Mr. Rosevelt's plans or of the opposition by congressional isolationists.

In Paris, the inference that President Roosevelt now views the Rhine as the frontier of American defense was hailed as having put a damper on the demands of the dictatorial combination formed by Germany and Italy.

In Germany, the controlled Nazi press assailed Mr. Roosevelt on the grounds that he is seeking to create the basis for war and described official circles as "astounded" because the American president sought "to disturb" the effect of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's "peace" speech to the reichstag on Monday.

British Press Warns.

In Britain, the conservative press warned that the United States should not be viewed as going too far in support of the newly-stiffened democratic front

Fireman Rescues 3 But Loses His Own Life On Night Off

BERKELEY, Calif.—(AP)— On his night off, Lieut. Charles J. Ortman of the Berkeley fire department saved three small children of a neighbor from flames but lost his own life.

Ortman was sitting in his own home last night when he saw flames in the bedroom of the home of G. G. Rodgers.

Ortman ran across the street and told Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers and their daughter, Mrs. Zoe Mary Mello:

"Your house is on fire. One of you turn in an alarm!"

"My babies!" cried Mrs. Mello, starting toward the bedroom.

"I'll get them," said Ortman.

The fireman rescued Patricia, 4, and Robert and Barbara, 18-months-old twins; then he collapsed and died of overexertion and smoke suffocation.

IT'S A MAN'S WORLD

Most men can go to bed at the first sign of a yawn with no more preparation than a quick change from street clothes to pajamas. While unfortunate femmes must undergo a rigid ceremony usually starting with a facial and ending with fifteen minutes of calesthenics, fifty strokes with the hair brush and a tepid bath. By the time this ritual is completed she is wide awake and must resort to a book to hasten the sand man's visit. No wonder most insomniacs are women!

News-Journal Want Ads have a regular ritual to perform, too—that might be what keeps them so wide awake! You phone Canal 4251, place your ad and from that time on they are busy at work getting results for you.

Rates are low and you may charge it.

Sues Five-and-Ten

Charging that she was crippled when she fell over a box in the aisle of a five-and-ten-cent store, ruining her chance for employment, Doris Clancy, 22-year-old New York model, is bringing suit for $100,000 against the store.

CITY TABULATES SCORES OF BIDS

20 Companies Submit Prices on Street Materials and Supplies.

The city board of control today was tabulating bids of 20 firms submitted on the various street materials and supplies to be used by the city this year.

Opened yesterday by the board which is comprised of Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, the bids were still being tabulated today by the engineering department.

Nist said that none of the contracts would be awarded for at least a week until the board had time to make a thorough study of all the bids.

Of the 20 different materials which the city will purchase, only one failed to get a bid, that was 300 tons of refuse salt, for use during the winter months to keep the streets clear of ice.

For the third successive year the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company submitted the lone bid for supplying the city with road oil and asphalt. Specifications call for delivery of seven tank cars of oil and 200 tons of various types of asphalt.

Proposals on the delivery of 50 tons of calcium chloride were submitted by two firms, both of which quoted a price of $22 per ton. They

SEEN FOR POST

McMillen Backed by G. O. P. for Road Maintenance Job.

James McMillen, Mifflin township, a structural engineer, is in line for appointment as state highway maintenance superintendent in Richland county, it was learned from reliable sources today. Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division engineer, said no immediate change in the maintenance department is planned here, however.

Shaffer added that Arthur Fletcher, a Democrat, would continue as maintenance superintendent temporarily, at least.

"Mr. Fletcher is under civil service and so far as I know there has been no move to replace him in the Richland county department," Shaffer added.

Leading county Republicans, however, said McMillen, formerly a partner in the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company, probably will get the county executive committee's endorsement for the post.

Shaffer announced the resignation of Homer Crone, rodman in the Ashland division of the highway department. Crone said he quit his job with another one in view.

DIES IN SOUTH

Mrs. Mittendorf, Former Reformatory Head, Stricken In South.

MARYSVILLE —(AP)— Friends received word today of the sudden death yesterday of Mrs. L. M. Mittendorf, former superintendent of the Ohio reformatory for women here, at her home in Sarasota, Fla. No details were known.

Mrs. Mitterdorf left here for the south shortly after she resigned in December, 1935, the position she held for 20 years.

PLANT TO EXPAND

SIDNEY — (AP) — The Monarch Machine Tool company announced plans today for a new $160,000 office building to be completed by April 1.

MATCHING BILL DUE FOR FINAL ACTION TODAY

Dollar-for-Dollar Provision Leaves City Looking for Means to Comply.

NO HELP, REPEATS KELLEY

House Vote Due This Afternoon on Emergency Bill Setting Up $5,000,000 Fund.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The house finance committee unanimously recommended for passage today the administration bill which provides $12,000,000 from the general revenue fund for payment of the school foundation allocation due Feb. 28. The bill includes $400,000 re-appropriated for vocational education.

Mansfield city officials cast about for some "mythical means" to finance their share of relief today as the $5,000,000 appropriation bill neared final action in the legislature in Columbus.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley repeated that passage of the emergency measure as it now stands—calling for matching—would not help Mansfield as the city at present, has no way of raising their share of funds for matching purposes. Other cities are in the same dilemma.

"Our only alternative would be to match the state funds mythically, as we did last year," Kelley explained, "unless enabling legislation now being considered, is approved to faciliate local fund transfers."

Hints At Levy.

He pointed out that with the city finances already "in a crippled condition," that council would be faced "sooner or later" with the problem of again considering some sort of legislation that would place the issue of raising poor relief funds directly before the voters in the form of relief bonds or a levy.

An emergency bill introduced by Sen. Richard Milroy (R-Toledo) authorized subdivisions to issue poor relief deficiency bonds to meet matching obligations.

The bill allows subdivisions to issue the bonds after their bonding capacity has been exhausted. The state tax commission would determine the amount of the bonds. The bill also authorizes the levy of a tax for the payment of interest.

The relief bill is due to come up for a final vote in the house

'ANTI-NECKERS' BARE TECHNIQUE

Coed Says She Just 'Swears Softly' and They 'Get the Idea.'

MINNEAPOLIS—(U.P.)—A group of University of Minnesota male students learned today of various techniques coeds employ to avoid "necking," and found, too, that some have no technique at all.

A dozen men attended a university forum at which coeds answered a questionnaire on men. One girl said she avoided embraces by struggling for a while, then swearing softly in the man's ear, finally telling him pointedly to get away.

"He usually gets the idea by that time," she said.

Asked if they objected to being kissed good night on the first date, two-thirds of the girls indicated they did not.

Tyrone Gives Up Radio Acting

Tyrone Power, screen and radio actor, lost his job as an actor over the airlanes today at the persuasion of the 20th Century-Fox studio. The studio settled Power's contract with the Woodbury company, his radio sponsor, which paid the actor $5,000 weekly. Complaints from movie exhibitors that Hollywood broadcasts are cutting attendance figures led to the action.

Movie Operators Complain, So Power Quits Air Waves

Actor Loses $5,000-a-Week Job as Studio Attempts to Curb Reduced Attendance at Theaters.

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD—Tyrone Power, screen and radio actor, was taken off the air today by his movie bosses, in answer to complaints from theater-owners that Hollywood broadcasts are emptying their show houses.

Power will sacrifice $5,000 a week radio earnings. The studio settled his contract with the Woodbury company, his radio sponsor for the past 18 months and he will confine himself to film work after Sunday night's broadcast.

Persuaded to Quit.

Darryl Zanuck, vice-president of 20th Century-Fox, said the studio persuaded Power to quit radio work.

"We have no quarrels with the radio," Zanuck said, "but there is great validity in the insistence of theater exhibitors who contend they are being severely injured because the airlanes are so crowded with screen personalities.

"Not only the theaters but the stars themselves are endangered because it is so difficult to get adequate material for these air programs, especially when they must present something new each week. Film companies spend thousands of dollars and months of time preparing for the single appearance on the screen of any one of their stars. By its very nature, radio cannot exercise such care for the protection of a player."

PROBES DEATH

Coroner Studying Demise of Baby at Adario.

Dr. Hugh C. Winbigler, Richland county coroner, today was investigating the death this morning of Edison J. Hunter, three-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hunter at the home in Adario, north of Mansfield.

Cause of the baby's death was not known. Dr. Winbigler did not give an immediate verdict, saying he wanted more time to study the case before a verdict was given.

Surviving besides the parents are a brother, William, the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edison Hunter, and a great grandfather, Amos Hunter, all of Adario. The body was removed to the Jones funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

BORAH BETTER

Senator Keeps Fighting Threat of Pneumonia Attack.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho, ill of grippe in a Washington hospital, was reported this morning to be in a "satisfactory" condition.

His personal physician said last night there appeared to be no present threat of pneumonia. Borah was stricken with a cold Tuesday.

DIES AT AGE 100

Cleveland Woman Saw Union Soldiers Parade In Square.

CLEVELAND — (UNS) — Cleveland's Union avenue-East 93rd street neighborhood today mourned the death of Mrs. Louise Sampson, 100, until three weeks ago a familiar figure in the stores and on the sidewalks of the area.

Mrs. Sampson came to Cleveland from Norway in 1861, and on her first day here saw Union soldiers parading in public square on the way to the Civil war.

Groundhog Fails to See Shadow But Spring Isn't 'Just Around Corner'

Weatherman Defies Old Tradition, All He Can 'See Is 'Colder.'

DON'T cancel your coal order just because there was a breath of spring in the air this morning or because the groundhog, who came out for his snifter of fresh air today, hadn't seen his shadow—up to noon anyway.

Because the weatherman predicts "cloudy and colder tonight; fair and colder Friday" —and that "colder" business is pretty apt to reoccur a number of times between now and March 21, the official opening of spring.

Tradition has it that if the groundhog emerges from his winter hibernation and sees his shadow cast by the sun, he'll return for another six-week siesta—which means six more weeks of winter.

But the materialists with no imagination are saying "phooey!" to the old superstition, and one of them, State Conservation Commissioner Don Waters of Columbus, even goes so far as to intimate that the lowly skunk might just as easily serve as a barometer of winter's end, since he also hibernates through the more strenuous winter weather.

Although Mr. Woodchuck saw nary a sign of his shadowed self in most parts of the country today, there was one place where he did, and that was at his official headquarters — Punxsutawney, Pa.

It is at Punxsutawney that, high-hatted chiefs of the Groundhog Lodge go into the mountains to observe the animal make his mid-winter debut, and the chiefs reported today that the sun had shone just long enough to send the marmot scurrying back to his subterranean home, there to snooze until the winter winds have howled themselves out.

So you can take your notice. Maybe we'll have an early spring and maybe we won't.

CITY PROTESTS WPA'S SET-UP ON INVENTORY

Charges Other Projects Have Been 'Robbed' to Provide Staff for Survey.

THREE JOBS SHUT DOWN

Man Working on Sewer Survey Taken Off Job to Assist in Starting Inventory.

City officials had protested today — apparently without much success—at the manner in which the city's real property inventory, which got under way today, is being conducted by WPA.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said that WPA officials in charge of the project had taken a WPA draftsman employed on the city's badly-needed sewer survey off that job and placed him on the RPI project. He also said that RPI officials had closed down the city records project, the vital statistics project and the county book binding project, employing a total of 40 persons.

To Take Ten Months.

It developed today that the RPI would not provide a great deal of additional employment, as city and county co-sponsors had expected, and that it would probably take at least 10 months, instead of the four months originally announced as the duration of the project.

Both city and county, co-sponsors of the project and contributors of $250 each, while the WPA contributed about $28,000, expected that the project would provide employment for additional people, possibly lightening the direct relief load to some extent.

They pointed out that shifting of WPA employes from one project to another—a sort of checker game—did nothing to improve the unemployment situation, and only got one project under way at the expense of others, though they admitted the importance of the RPI undertaking.

WPA officials expect to spend three weeks training the RPI personnel and doing what Van Der Wert called "large amount of clerical work" before starting the actual field work in the survey.

Mayor Hunter was especially exercised at the removal of the man at work on the sewer survey, under the direction of City Engineer W. C. Statler.

"That survey is one of the most

HIT BY TRAIN

Driver Injured, Wife Escapes in Accident at Bellville.

A trip to Mansfield this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Olin Beal of R. D. 3, Fredericktown, was interrupted in Bellville when their automobile was struck by a southbound Baltimore and Ohio passenger train.

Beal, 52, suffered lacerations about the head and shock, and was reported unconscious when taken to Mansfield General hospital. His condition was reported as "fair" at the hospital. Mrs. Beal escaped injury but suffered from shock.

Authorities were told Beal was thrown from the car. The crossing is guarded by a signal bell, and it is believed that Beal did not hear the bell. The car was demolished.

NAMED ENGINEER

Bucyrus Man Heads Richland and Crawford Highway Division.

James Atkinson, of Bucyrus, today was appointed resident state highway engineer for a new district which includes Richland and Crawford counties, Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, announced. Atkinson, who succeeds Boyd Wierman in Richland county, will have his headquarters in Bucyrus.

Beightler said Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division engineer, would be acting resident engineer in Ashland and Wayne counties.

BUS LINE EXTENDED

COLUMBUS—(AP)—With the approval of the state utilities commission, the Cincinnati and Lake Erie Transportation company extended its passenger bus operations to include a line between Hamilton and Middletown.

NARCOTIC, LIQUOR TRAFFIC TO COST JOBS OF GUARDS

'Clean Up This Mess,' Sherwood Orders Woodard; Parole Racketeering Also Comes Under Fire; Charges Davey Tied Hands of Prison Warden.

(Picture on Page 2.)

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Removal of some officials or guards, Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood predicted today, probably will result from an investigation of what he termed an illicit traffic in drugs and liquor at Ohio penitentiary.

Warden James C. Woodard, a member of the prison staff for 30 years and its head for four years, was told by Sherwood to "clean up this mess" or face removal charges. The director also expressed dissatisfaction with the co-operation and loyalty tendered the warden by Deputy Warden August Ptak of Paulding and a number of guards.

"As soon as we can put our fingers on the guilty parties, either guards or officials, they will be removed," asserted Sherwood, who said the investigation also would cover reports of parole racketeering and favoritism shown some convicts.

The investigation is being conducted by Woodard and William F. Amrine, superintendent of corrections. Sherwood said he expected frequent reports from them but that no time limit had been set for the inquiry.

Sherwood declared that he had no evidence to date of parole racketeering, but that he was interested in charges made by Parole Board Chairman Harrison W. Jewell recently that such conditions existed.

At a press conference today, Sherwood attributed conditions at the penitentiary "to interference on the part of the administration and executive office (the former Davey administration) and the fact that the warden did not have full authority over his personnel.

Must Be Run 'Right.'

"This authority is given to him now. I don't want to protect him beyond what he is entitled to, but if he'll run the penitentiary right I'll back him to the limit."

Both Woodard and Ptak, named to their positions by former Gov. Martin L. Davey, are under civil service and unless they resigned it would be necessary to file ouster charges with the civil service commission to remove them.

Ptak has general charge of operations inside the walls of the century-old prison.

Gov. John W. Bricker said that the investigation order had not

SPURS HOPE FOR PEACE IN SPAIN

3-Point Program Outlined by Premier Designed to End War by Negotiation.

(By United Press)

PERPIGNAN, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—A three-point peace basis laid down by Premier Juan Negrin of Loyalist Spain roused hope today that international efforts might be made to end the Spanish war by negotiation.

Addressing the Loyalist parliament, Negrin emphasized that the Republican government would fight not only for central Spain but for Catalonia to the end, added that the government had always sought a peaceful solution of its problems.

"Three guarantees are necessary for any peaceful solution acceptable to the government," he continued. "First, a guarantee of the independence and sovereignty of Spain. Secondly, freedom from all foreign influences and a free life for the Spanish people. Thirdly, no persecution of the civil population and no reprisals."

There had been reports along the frontier that some international action already had been taken—specifically, that France had opened negotiations, working through a British agent at the Nationalist seat of government at Burgos, for an armistice in Catalonia.

HOLDUP FIZZLES, 2 WOMEN JAILED

Columbus Mother Tries to Rob Taxi Driver With Toy Pistol.

COLUMBUS—(UNS)—Two women, one of whom was armed with the toy pistol of her three-year-old son, were held in Columbus city prison today in connection with the eight-dollar holdup of a taxi-driver in suburban Bexley.

The women were Mrs. Mary Kuhn, 28, of Logan, O., who had the toy pistol, and Inez Guy, 36, of Nelsonville.

The cab driver, immediately after the robbery, swerved his taxi into the path of a truck. The women fled, but were captured after a short chase.

MAXIE ARRIVES

Fighter Denies He Had Scrap With Goebbels, Nazi Leader.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Max Schmeling, arriving in the United States to wipe out the stain of his one-round knockout at the hands of Joe Louis, denied today that he had been in trouble with the German government and said he had dinner with Dr. Joseph Goebbels six weeks ago.

Schmeling was questioned about published reports that he had threatened to "break Goebbels' neck" if the propaganda minister of the Nazi government molested Anny Ondra, motion picture actress and wife of the fighter.

He denied such reports.

"Does Goebbels like you?" he was asked.

"Why ask me? Why don't you go over and find out from him?"

U. S. JAILS 20

FIVE RUSSIAN SOLDIERS DIE IN SKIRMISH

Manchukuo Disorders Follow Warning by Japanese of New Offensive Drive.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—The Japanese news agency Domei reported today that 100 Soviet troops crossed the Soviet-Manchukuo border 60 miles northeast of Manchuli this afternoon.

Japanese forces opened fire and drove off the Russians, who left behind five killed and three wounded, the dispatch stated.

This was the second clash along the border reported in as many days. Yesterday the Russian government, in a formal note to Tokyo, protested an alleged clash in which, it was stated, seven Manchukuoan soldiers were wounded and a Soviet section commander slightly hurt.

Told To Evacuate.

SHANGHAI —(AP)— Japanese warned foreign consuls today they planned an immediate offensive against Lushan mountain and advised that the estimated 65 foreigners there be evacuated before Feb. 10.

The foreigners, including more than a dozen Americans, are at Kuling, Chinese summer resort on top of the mountain, which is 14 miles south of Kiukiang, Yantze river port below Hankow.

The Japanese offered to aid in the evacuation and warned that the foreigners who remained would do so at "their own risk since the Japanese cannot be responsible for damages or injuries."

The Japanese spokesman estimated the foreigners at Kuling included 37 British, 12 Americans, nine Germans and seven other nationalities. Associated Press files in Shanghai list names and addresses of 18 Americans believed to be in Kuling.

The note to foreign consuls left the foreigners to make their own arrangements with the 4,000 or 5,000 Chinese guerillas entrenched on the mountain.

Japanese forces already encircled Lushan with outposts approximately halfway up the mountainside.

Reports from three widely separated points within the Japanese army's far-flung front lines told of bitter fighting between Japanese forces and Chinese irregulars, illustrating the continuation of vigorous Chinese resistance in supposedly conquered areas.

Advertises For Owners of $329 in Unclaimed Funds

Fred R. Zellner, county clerk of courts, had $329 in unclaimed funds on his hands today, so he advertised for the owners.

Zellner posted notices at the courthouse to more than a dozen persons who either refused to accept funds deposited at the clerk's office for them, or don't know they have money coming to them.

All but $13.20 of the unclaimed money belongs to Willard Hale, Mifflin township farmer, who has failed to claim $316 deposited for him by the Muskingum Conservancy district. The deposit is for land appropriated by the conservancy district.

The other claims, which range from 80 cents to $2, include witness fees and minor refunds, Zellner said.

If the money is still unclaimed at the end of a year, the clerk turns it over to the county treasurer who may put it in the county's general fund.

Mansfielders who were in Cleveland this week and saw the Gracie Allen collection of paintings which are on display at Chin's Chinese restaurant for the benefit of Chinese war sufferers, are just as bewildered by the paintings as by Gracie's repartee. The paintings represent Gracie at her daffiest, with "upside down" subjects. But the collection is insured for a half million dollars. The Chinese benefit drive ends tonight with the presentation of a Chinese opera at Cleveland Grace Episcopal church, in which a Mansfield woman, Edith Fletcher Jameson, will sing a major role.

His office is in a former garage on Bowman street, but his time is divided between that and the Hedges school building, the Wagner building on North Main street, and the various places over the city where Simpson students are quartered for the time being. ## KILLED 300 MEN

France's Executioner Dies After Subway Collapse.

PARIS —(AP)— Anatole Deibler, 75-year-old hereditary high executioner of France, died suddenly today.

The aged "Monsieur De Paris," whose family has given France her executioners since the revolution, collapsed in a subway station on the outskirts of Paris and died shortly after he reached a hospital.

Deibler had executed more than 300 men on the guillotine since he inherited the office from his father, Louis Deibler, just before the end of the last century.

Always in traveling about France with his three assistants he used a private train compartment, the shades of which he usually kept drawn. Invariably he traveled under an assumed name.

Donald Martindill, on whose farm 10 miles west of here the shooting occurred, was held in the Vinton county jail today without charge while officers investigated.

Hands in Pockets, Hamilton Police Slayer Strolls to Death Seat at Pen.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Almost as calm as if he were walking along a street, John William Cline of West Elkton sauntered in to the death chamber of Ohio penitentiary last night and was executed for the slaying of Aaron Laubach, Hamilton policeman.

Hands pushed into his pockets, the 24-year-old former steel worker strolled unconcernedly into the little white room and ignored guards and witnesses as he was strapped fast. He was pronounced dead at 8:09 p. m.

Laubach was slain Jan. 27, 1938, as he guarded a gasoline station. Chester Francis, 19-year-old brother-in-law of Cline who waited outside the station, also was indicted for first degree murder but a jury recommendation of mercy made his sentence life imprisonment.

Heeding a recommendation by the state patrol board, Gov. John W. Bricker refused yesterday to commute Cline's death sentence to life.

Warden James C. Woodard of Ohio penitentiary said Cline received the news calmly.

"He asked me if anything else would be done for him," Woodard reported.

"I told him I couldn't answer that. He spent most of the afternoon talking with his wife, his father, Daniel Cline, and a sister-in-law."

OHIO SUPREME COURT OUTLAWS LICENSED SLOTS IN CLEVELAND

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Slot machines, the state supreme court held today, are gambling devices and cities in Ohio cannot, through licensing, turn them into producers of revenue.

Ruling on a suit brought by William J. Krause to enjoin Cleveland officials from placing in operation a city ordinance providing for licensing of various types of machines, the court late yesterday affirmed a common pleas court order that allowed the restrainer and reversed an appellate court ruling that set aside the injunction.

The decision was unanimous except for Judge William L. Hart, who did not participate because he did not hear the arguments.

"Where the result of a game is determined by the automatic or mechanical operation of a device upon which the game is played, and not subject to the control of the player, it is a result determined by chance," the court held.

At Cleveland Safety Director Eliot Ness said he would allow a "reasonable" time for removal of the machines from business houses.

Other decisions by the court included:

Ordered Warren G. Townsend reinstated as tax clery by Hamilton county auditor, ruling that Berning was under civil service and his position could not be exempted.

Refused to upset administration of the estate of Daniel Cronin by the probate court of Stark county, which had been sought by Carroll County Prosecutor Lamoine Handley. Handley contended that although Cronin died in Stark county, he was a resident of Carroll and his estate should be administered there. Determination of which county was entitled to inheritance taxes was the issue. The court said the Carroll county prosecutor had other legal remedies.

CONVICTS BALK

San Quentin Inmates Strike Over Corned Beef Menu.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif.— (AP) — San Quentin prison, largest in the country, was a powder keg today as thousands of ravenous convicts sat idle in their cells, growling complaints about the food they refused to eat.

Several days ago mumbled criticism about too much "corned willie"—corned beef hash—on the prison menu grew into talk of a revolt. Yesterday the hunger strike quickly spread in the overcrowded prison from a few hundred men in the jute mill to nearly 4,000 of the prison's 5,300 inmates.

Warden Court Smith decided to take no chances on permitting massed demonstrations today by the sullen convicts. He announced no one would be permitted to leave his cell unless he first agreed to eat his meals as usual.

RESUMPTION OF 'RED' HEARING HELD 'CERTAIN'

Committee Finishes Testimony But Opponents, Charging Politics, Battle on.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — House approval of continuing the Dies investigation of un-American activities was regarded on Capitol Hill today as a foregone conclusion.

But as the rules committee was finishing hearings preparatory to floor debate, a small group of representatives was making every effort to prevent a favorable vote.

Representative Keller (D-Ill.) and Dingell (D-Mich.) criticised the conduct of the Dies inquiry to the rules committee yesterday, contending there were political motives behind the hearings last summer.

Dingell declared the testimony had blackened the character of Atty. Gen. Frank Murphy. Keller said the testimony had defeated Murphy for re-election as governor of Michigan, and otherwise had assisted the Republican party in Minnesota and California.

Clashes With Witnesses.

Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) clashed frequently with the witnesses, asking them to "keep the record straight" and not repeat hearsay statements.

Two witnesses asked the Dies group "to stand aside" and permit formation of a new committee which would start a new investigation of un-American activities. Dies indicated his refusal to consider this suggestion, and his work was upheld by several rules committee members, including Rep. Cox (D-Ga.)

"This country is behind the Dies committee. If you don't think so read the thousands of letters of approval pouring in upon it," Cox told Rep. McGranery (D-Pa.)

Meanwhile the house directed its attention to the $725,000 Relief bill which bumped into one last obstacle—a demand by southerners that congress wipe out some of WPA'S wage differentials.

An amendment by Rep. Tarver (D-Ga.,) would bar wage differentials of more than 25 per cent for the same type of work in different regions.

The senate rejected the amendment and refused even to compromise on it. Should the house again back Tarver's proposal, the bill would have to return to a joint senate-house committee. Otherwise, the senate is through with the measure, having approved yesterday modified restrictions on use of relief money for political purposes.

McVey post, American Legion, was presented with a citation from national headquarters for "community service," last night by Dr. I. C. Kuntz of Fremont, commander of the Fifth district.

Kuntz presented the award to Walter L. Beckley, commander of McVey post. Fourteen new members were initiated and Louis Bromfield, who recently transferred his membership from American Legion Post No. 1 in Paris to McVey post, was welcomed.

Kuntz talked on Americanism and the Legion's program to promulgate American doctrines. About 90 members attended.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Mooney Ought to Restate His Beliefs, Let Labor Know Where He Stands

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Inasmuch as Tom Mooney now represents himself as a leader, almost as the god, of American labor, he puts it up to the patriotic citizens for whom he presumes to speak to examine his character, methods and declared beliefs.

There may be some among the Americans whom he would call his followers who would then take care to repudiate him. The latest suggestion, that Mooney be judged by the company he keeps, or that he be taken at his word on matters on which he has declared himself, is immediately and violently denounced as "red-baiting" and as the paid propaganda of Wall Street and Fascism.

But, in this connection, it is important to remember that he, himself, is a skilled baiter and propagandist, that toil was not his principal occupation even before he was sent to prison, and that, in denouncing the Nazi-Fascist type of dictatorship, he has failed to denounce the Russian kind, as well.

Indeed, he has expressed admiration for Josef Stalin, and a compilation of his writings might move American workers who believe in unionism, but not in revolution, to withhold their credentials from him.

Surely, it would be no injustice to Mooney to give wide publicity to the beliefs and urgings which have appeared under his name, and any assertion to the contrary could only mean that it was desired to deceive American workers as to his true principles and intentions.

Mooney himself, in fact, should be glad to emphasize his inflexible policies again in a general restatement, which would be sure to receive wide publicity, and abide by the judgment of American labor on his aspiration to lead.

As matters stand up to now, he simply takes it for granted that he represents American labor, including many conscious patriots, and the self-approval which is such a famous part of his personal character precludes any doubt of the validity of this assumption.

"The most respectful audience that any man ever addressed paid me the highest tribute ever given a human being," Mooney wrote in one message, describing the parade which followed his release from San Quentin by a political decision of the American citizens of California. . . . "Homecoming celebration for me never before equaled in the whole history of the world."

But that remarkable vanity of the individual man might be dismissed as immaterial. A vain man may be a good man, and immodesty is neither un-American nor illegal, although it may be bad politics. But loyal American citizens, who demand Americanism as the first qualification in their leaders, and insist on their own definition of Americanism, would examine Mooney's declared beliefs with care.

Nor can it be held, although it will be savagely argued, that a scrutiny of Mooney's statements, by which he must stand or fall, is a trick of Fascist propaganda. All public men aspiring to leadership are judged by their utterances on the issues.

Mooney's written comments and declarations constitute a large file. They should be edited, not corrected or modified, but gathered into an edition and placed in the hands of the loyal citizens as the platform of Tom Mooney.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Short-short of the week is "Stars for Tomorrow," a movie with a history. You may never see it, but I hope you do. Such an effort deserves an audience.

About 17 months ago Patrick Michael Cunning, 32, extra and bit-player, decided to do something about the careers all extras are supposed to talk and dream about. He and his wife, Persis Annan, a ballet dancer and teacher, gathered their intrepid associates, pooled resources, and became—producers.

For a total cost of $800 (which amounts in Hollywood production circles to about one-quarter inch on the end of a shoestring) they've completed their brief saga of the extra in Hollywood, the moral of which is that stars of today have come from the "ranks," stars of tomorrow will surely do the same.

About 250 extras, in various capacities, have worked on the project, and many of them have "shares" ranging from two-tenths of 1 per cent to 2 per cent in the profits, if any. They worked on Sundays, mostly, only day when any such group of extras are likely to be free simultaneously. They borrowed a friend's North Hollywood home as a set, borrowed "props," and transformed the patio into a continental "beer garden." They made their own costumes, some for as little as 67 cents. Most expensive outfit is worn by John Alban as a John Barrymore-ish character. The costume is that worn by Barrymore in "Reunion In Vienna." They rented it.

The picture was "shot" as funds materialized. There were times when production was "suspended" pending further financing. Sometimes they afforded a professional cameraman: again Cunning himself would do the camera work. One-time extra Marie Wilson was among the "outside" contributors. Sons of famous movie people—Wallace Reid, jr., Carlyle Blackwell, jr., Eric von Stroheim, jr., Gibson Gowland, jr., and Bryant Washburn, jr.—appear in the film, the only "names" in the cast. Gerry Mohr's voice is heard in the narration—and it's a good voice.

Cunning, in pictures 13 years, once a featured player with such silent stars as Madge Bellamy and Belle Bennett, hopes the piece will focus attention on "the world of talent that lies among the extras, now largely overlooked."

"The Three Musketeers," which starred Douglas Fairbanks in 1921, Walter Abel in 1935, the Ritz Brothers and Don Ameche in a new musical comedy version, 1939, is being considered by Fairbanks' new producing company as a starrer for the Fairbanks, jr., to be played straight. (Meaning, presumably, sans Ritzes, sans music.)

"Beau Geste," made in 1926 with Ronald Colman, Ralph Forbes, Neil Hamilton, is to be talkied with Gary Cooper, Ray Milland, Robert Preston. (William Powell was the "heavy" in the silent film, remember?—Brian Donlevy gets it this time.)

Complains Of Drunken Husband

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My husband drinks and gambles so heavily that he never can keep a job for any length of time. I have four children, ranging in ages from nine years to one month. Before the last one was born, my husband beat me up and left me. When he becomes insane with drink, I often have to send for the police. He is then sane enough to go to bed, so that when the police arrive they can't do anything with him, because they don't find him making trouble. After they leave, he goes out for more liquor.

I feed my children on borrowed money. I never know where he is working, because he is afraid I may have his salary attached. I'd love to go out to work, but isn't he legally obliged to support the children?

UNFORTUNATE.

Better consult the Legal Aid Society immediately, and then see what the Government or charity agencies may be able to do for you. There isn't much to be expected of a man who would beat his wife before her baby is born, and allows his children to be fed on borrowed money. While the government agenices have been obliged to curtail work given to destitute women, still your case seems so desperate that they might stretch a point and give you sewing if you are able to do it. A man who pits his wits against his family and claims to be able to outsmart them, by keeping the source of his wages concealed, is a pretty poor example for children to look up to, as their father.

THEATERS

PARAMOUNT gives one of its current productions a title without beginning or end or capital letters. It is " . . . one third of a nation . . ." in which Sylvia Sidney is featured and the climax is provided by a tenement district fire. . . . Lloyd Nolan will replace George Raft at Paramount, the latter's contract not being renewed. . . . The Irish brogue Barbara Stanwyck is using on her friends these day isn't an affectation, but practice for her role of the Irish girl in "Union Pacific." . . . Jack Benny will make "Man About Town" with Dorothy Lamour——if his trial for smuggling doesn't turn out too badly. . . .

Love In Paris.

An oil heiress with more dollars than hairs in her pretty blond head, pretends to be a poor woiking goil out of work in order to be looked after by Jack Benny, who is as broke as she pretends to be, in "Artists and Models Abroad." Joan Bennett is the girl. Mary Boland is an ambitious dowager, and Joyce Compton is a pert chorus girl in the picture which is being shown at the Madison. The double-feature bill also includes "Homicide Bureau" in which Bruce Cabot is a two-fisted detective.

Brennan Wins Recognition.

Walter Brennan, who plays the Kentucky colonel in "Kentucky," is one of the least known players in Hollywood, yet he is rapidly becoming one of its greatest character players. He was scarcely noticed before he played the old gaffer in "Come and Get It" (for which he won the Academy Award.) It wouldn't be surprising if he won the award again for his work in "Kentucky." The picture, a technicolor of the Blue Grass state, is at the Ohio, with Loretta Young and Richard Greene.

Twain Classic Returns.

The characters of Mark Twain's classic, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," are created and brought to the screen in the film based on the book, and which will be a Majestic attraction Friday and Saturday. Young Tommy Kelly, the 12-year-old Brooklynite who had never been out of the city, was selected to play the small-town Missouri boy. May Robson and Walter Brennan have important roles. Charles Starrett in "Rio Grande" is the second feature.

Ritz Bros. at Ritz.

The Damon Runyon story, "Straight, Place and Show," brings the Ritz Brothers to the Ritz theater for the last two days of the week, with Ethel Merman, Richard Arlem, Phyllis Brooks, George Barbier and Willie Best in support. Naturally, it's a racing story, with romance on the side, and several Merman song numbers. "Starlight Over Texas," with Tex Ritter, is the Western feature for the two-day program.

Champion In Movies.

Herman Brix, Olympic champion and former world's record holder for the shot put, is the hero of "Million Dollar Racket," a Park theater attraction. This is the story of a millionaire in disguise who turns chauffeur for a family that has just struck oil and is socially ambitious. On the same screen is Bobby Breen, Charlie Ruggles and Dolores Costello in "Breaking the Ice."

Overheating and dryness are the principal enemies of the begonia. Keep the temperature as close to 70 degrees as possible. This is usually practically carried out by choosing the coolest part of the room. Dryness is more difficult, but when you remedy a dry condition in the atmosphere, it is as much a measure of health for humans as for plants. The simplest way is to place pans, or concealed containers, on the radiator.

Egg whites will not beat up fluffy and light if they are placed in anything besides a cold bowl or if there is any egg yolk or water in them. The egg beater should be dry, perfectly clean and cool. It is often a good plan to place the bowl of egg whites and the beater in the refrigerator for 10 minutes before beating the eggs.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"'At a gal, Auntie Madge!" she caroled.

"Are you going to leave me to be the whipping boy?" Miss Whitlock asked with pretended pathos. "He's going to be in a perfectly vile mood when he comes and finds you gone."

"Oh! he won't be mean to you," Mary assured her nonchalantly. "He never takes his temper out on the innocent bystanders, and he knows you're not in any way responsible for our shortcomings. He'll flay Auntie Madge and me alive, but he won't touch you."

Mary set her hat at a more rakish angle, if that were possible, and slipped her arm through mine.

"Come on, darling let's go places!" she caroled and rushed me to the door. Miss Whitlock's calm voice stopped us at the threshold.

"What time will you really be back?" she asked, smiling.

With the crest of my anger rapidly receding, I smiled at her.

"About an hour," I told her. "I know Mr. Veritzen. He will call up again in about a half hour. I simply want to make it plain to him that I will not accept such dictation from him as he just issued. Once my message is relayed to him, I shall be ready to come back and wait for him."

Miss Whitlock's lips twitched.

"I think I'll crawl under the bed when you finally meet him," she said. "Now, what do you want me to say to the gentleman when he calls again?"

"Just give him the message I told the operator to give him," I told her. "I'll telephone you in aoout an hour and ask you casually whether you have any telephone messages for me, being careful not to mention any names. Then, if he has telephoned, you can tell me just that, not relaying any message—"

"Which would probably sizzle the wires," Mary interposed with a grin.

The Program.

"Exactly," I said. "Now, he may telephone the operator, and not trouble you, so I shall ask her the same question. Once he has telephoned and received my message, I shall return to the hotel."

"Suppose he doesn't telephone," she said, hesitantly.

"Then I shall not come back to the hotel until I have first telephone you and ascertaincd that he is here," I said firmly. "But—I am very sure that you will see me shortly after an hour from now."

"I hope so," she said fervently, and her hope was not disappointed, for when I telephoned her at the end of the hour and asked her concerning telephone messages, she said that Mr. Veritzen had telephoned again, and that she had given him my message.

The telephone operator quickly interposed a comment when Miss Whitlock hung up her receiver.

"Mr. Veritzen was quite concerned, Mrs. Graham," she said.

"But I am not," I fairly snapped, and hung up the receiver.

When we did come back, Mary and I "put on a show" of animated chatter and low-voiced mirth as we went through the lobby.

Apparently we had not a care in the world, and when we finally came back into our suite, Mary struck a dramatic pose in front of Miss Whitlock and intoned:

"Are we down-hearted? No.

"Are we scared stiff? No-o-o.

"Are we getting ready for the stake and the fagots? No—yes?

"Do we regret our defiance? No, no, never!"

The shrill of the telephone punctuated her chant, and she stopped, with her hands on her heart, and her face ludicrously aghast. I lifted the receiver and the operator said breathlessly:

"Mr. Veritzen is here and wishes to see you."

Vegetables Make Hearty Dishes

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

HERE ARE some different and delicious vegetable recipes, good substantial dishes just right for this time of the year, and nice when a change from the usual is required.

Tomato Casserole is first, a nice lunch or supper dish. Two cups tomatoes (canned fresh), ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon peper, 2 cups bread and ½ cup milk. Strain tomatoes and heat slowly. Break bread into small pieces and add milk, salt, pepper and mustard. Place into greased baking dish and add the scalded tomatoes. Dot generously with butter and bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Here is our version of that old favorite, stuffed cabbage, and a very good version it is too! For one hard head of cabbage we take 2 cups diced cooked ham, 2 cups cooked rice, one egg, ⅛ teaspoon mace, ⅛ teaspoon poultry dressing, tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons melted butter, salt and pepper. Combine diced ham with the cooked rice, add slightly beaten egg, salt, pepper, mace, lemon juice, poultry seasoning and melted butter. Mix well. Cut off top of cabbage and scoop out to a large pocket, then fill this with mixture three-quarters full. Replace cabbage top. Tie cabbage in a moistened sheet of cooking parchment paper, steam for an hour, and serve with chopped parsley.

Spinach as it is cooked Dutch Pennsylvania fashion is a good, hearty dish, well flavored and nourishing. Ingredients include 4 slices bacon, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups water or potato water, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, one egg yolk. ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 3 cups chopped cooked spinach, 2 hard boiled eggs and paprika. Dice bacon and cook until crisp. Remove bacon, and add flour to bacon fat. Stir till smooth. Mix water, sugar, vinegar and add this to the flour mixture. Cook together until thick. Remove from heat; stir in beaten egg yolk and seasonings. Stir and cook about 2 minutes. Combine this sauce and the diced bacon with the chopped spinach. Heat through. Serve garnished with hard-cooked eggs which have been sprinkled with paprika.

Baked Beans Watch Hill Farms style, a dish concocted by Crosby Gaige and named for his lovely country place, is our last offering for today. The recipe, as given us by the theatrical producer himself, calls for one pound white beans, ½ pound salt pork, one onion, 2 cloves garlic, salt to taste, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon sage, teaspoon dry mustard and ¼ teaspoon allspice. Wash a pound of the little white beans and soak them overnight. Drain off water, cover with fresh water, add salt pork, onion, garlic, sage, salt and pepper. Heat slowly and cook until bean skins burst. Take out meat and slice. Place a few slices on bottom of bean pot. Fill up pot with the beans, place remaining meat on top. Dissolve mustard with a little bean water and pour over beans, then sprinkle with allspice. Cover and bake slowly for 2 hours.

New Ways To Use Fruits

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

BEAT northern blizzards with southern fruit. That is as good a slogan as any for this time of year. There's no need to wait for the flowers that bloom in the spring (tra la). There's an individual sample of that joyful season in each piece of citrus fruit that comes to us ripened by the sun. Squeeze 'em or eat 'em or use them in any of the myriad new and tasty ways for desserts, salads, breads—even the main dishes!

Palm Beach Chicken Salad, as befits its name, is a de luxe version of our old favorite. It takes 2 cups diced cooked chicken, 1 cup celery, diced, two tablespoons pimento, diced, 2 tablespoons green pepper, diced, ¾ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup mayonnaise, stuffed olives, 2 medium grapefruit, sectioned, and lettuce. Cut chicken, celery, pimento and green pepper into dice, and mix lightly with salt, pepper and mayonnaise. Heap in bed of crisp lettuce in salad bowl and garnish with strips of green pepper and pimento. Surround with rings of stuffed olives and grapefruit sections, radiating like spokes of a wheel.

Lamb Chops Pensacola comes next. Dip each lamb chop to be served in melted butter. Broil on one side for eight minutes. Turn. Place a thick slice of orange on each chop and broil for 8 minutes longer. Sprinkle lightly with paprika just before serving.

Baked Orange Marie requires 4 oranges, 8 dates, stoned and shredded, 4 teaspoons seeded raisins, 4 teaspoons chopped walnuts, 4 teaspoons grated cocoanut. With a sharp knife cut off tops of oranges and remove meat, leaving shells clean. Combine orange pulp with other ingredients. Fill orange shells with mixture and bake in a dish with half inch of water in bottom. Bake in slow oven (300 F.) for 40 minutes. Take from oven and top orange with meringue. Serve either hot or cold.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, February 3.

GREAT energy and initiative mark this day's doings, judging by major planetary operations, although this high-pressure attack may not always lead to the wished-for achievement. There is a menace of trickery, shrewdness and misconstrued writings or documents at the root of tangled transactions, which may be laid at the door of lawyers or other go-betweens. Watch these, change with prudence and due consideration, turn to aggressive action with determination and it is probable that a definite goal is within grasp.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves keyed to high activities in putting over important projects with much vim and determination plus well-constructed plans. But detrimental influences in connection with promotion or developing these propositions may be wrapped up with lawyers, agents or with misconstrued or distorted correspondence or documents. Be vigilant in this, make changes sagaciously and perhaps high-pressure tactics may win out.

A child born on this day may be capable, enterprising, audacious and disposed to tackle and create big things. Still, it may be unsettled and given to sudden changes and reversals, through the spirit of high adventure and bold initiative. It may have a conspicuous pioneer spirit.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A DENIAL OF STRENGTH

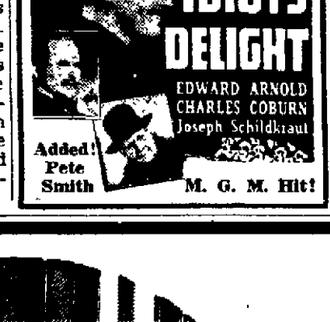
Following an informative or takeout double of your partner's opening suit bid, there is no need for you to bid if your hand is strong. Either redouble to tell your partner about your strength, or else pass and let the opponents bid themselves into trouble. If they do not happen to bid something you can double, then you can come in with your own bid. Your having passed in the first place tells your partner you were pretty strong, and had no reason for sticking in a bid on your first turn to try to keep the opponents out of a winning contract.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

This deal presented a case in which the dealer seemed to forget the logic of doubles and ensuing calls. South bid 1-Diamond, West doubled and North bid 1-Spade, not only to warn his partner of his general weakness but to prepare for a possible sacrifice against a threatening heart game. East passed this and South raised to 2-Spades. When West and North passed, East cut in with 3-Hearts, West raised it to 4-Hearts and South doubled.

After the heart game was made, plus an overtrick, South berated his partner for bidding on such a weak hand, in the first place, and for leaving in the double in the second place. North countered by saying this his bid had warned South that his hand was worthless defensively and that South should not have made a penalty double unless he could defeat the contract single-handed.

Such arguments will always come up, so long as some players consider that a bid in North's position must show at least about a defensive trick or perhaps a half a chance more, while others treat it as constituting a definite denial of defensive strength coupled with a guarantee of fair length in the suit named.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Why should South not make an opening bid on this deal?

Both the asparagus plumosus nanus and the asparagus sprengeri plumosus require good rich soil with drainage, and either will grow in partial sunshine or very little sun.

INDIANS CAN SPARE AVERILL IN DEAL FOR TIGER INFIELDER

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

CLEVELAND'S attempt to peddle Outfielder Earl Averill to a rival club in exchange for infield reinforcements has not met with any success.

A deal is pending with Detroit, but the Tigers, apparently, are unwilling to meet the Indians' demands, and, so, it is doubtful whether anything will come from the present dickering.

Rogell

Detroit is willing to give up Billy Rogell for Averill. While the Indians are ready to take the veteran shortstop from the Tiger lair, Averill is regarded as a more valuable chattel, and demand much more than one player in return.

The identity of the other player sought by the tribal chieftains remains a mystery, but Cy Slapnicka continues to hold out for more than Rogell.

Rogell is a competant ball player who might prove of more value to the Indians than Averill. Cleveland has more outfielders on the roster than it can use, and the loss of Averill would not seriously reduce the strength of the outer garden patrol, if any.

The acquisition of Ben Chapman from the Boston Red Sox should protect the Indians in the position held down by Averill during the past 10 years.

If Chapman played shortstop, the Indians wouldn't have a worry, but, unfortunately, he does not, and it is the infield post that must be strengthened.

Rogell has only a few more years of major league baseball in his system, but he could do much to help the Indians in those few seasons. For one thing, he would bolster the weakest link in the inner cordon until another shortstop could be groomed.

Then, also he would be an influence in the development of Oscar Grimes, who appears definitely slated for second base.

Lynn Lary, who held down the shortstop post last season, is a veteran, and should be able to help Grimes, but Manager Oscar Vitt has lacked confidence in the former Yankee.

Even if another shortstop is not obtained, it is doubtful whether Lary will be a regular with the Indians this year. Jimmy Webb will probably get the preference.

The only drawback it putting Webb and Grimes together at the most important infield posts is that neither is experienced, and they would not give the Indians the protection that a pennant-ambitious club requires.

In view of the present infield situation at Cleveland, this department seconds the motion to any kind of a deal involving Rogell and Averill.

West Fifth Students Start Bowling Early.

MANSFIELD'S youngest regular bowlers are students of West Fifth Street school Once every week, usually on Thursdays, a group of the youngsters take to the alleys. The ages of the keglers range from 9 to 12 years. Attendants at Meder alleys say they show great promise, although several are so small that they must use duckpin balls. Those who seldom miss one of the weekly sessions are Jean Eise, Doris Jacobs, Jean Schuler, Wilma Durant, Marion Davis, Marie Layacona, Stanley Packard, Charles Draves, Buster Snyder, and David and Jack Oberlin, the latter being nine . . Chappie Geygan, manager of the Fremont Green Sox, may get the managerial job of the Americus Ga., club in the Georgia-Florida league, the circuit in which Dewey Stover operated last summer . . . If Larry MacPhail keeps monkeying around with the Dodgers, he's liable to get them somewhere before the season ends He keeps doing things, the hiring of Terry McGovern, as trainer being the latest Prior to that he took on Babe Ruth as a coach last year, introduced the yellow ball with the greater visability, gave Brooklyn night baseball, put on track events before games, expanded the farm system from zero to five clubs and shattered all precedent by painting the park And, as Mr. Carver of the INS says, strangest of all is that he doesn't say Brooklyn will have a winner this year.

FURTHER PLANS FOR MANSFIELD RELAYS

The Citizens' and school committees of the Mansfield Relays furthered plans for the track and field carnival to be held at Stadium field April 22 at a joint meeting in the offices of Supt W L. Miller in the Richland Trust building last night.

A tentative budget was drawn up, William C. Mead, chairman of the finance committee, reported.

STILL VICTORYLESS

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The hapless basketball team of Otterbein college which has not won a game this season runs into more grief tonight against an angry Capital five, smarting from its initial two setbacks.

West's Cagers Invade

Cowboys, Believed Stronger Than Record Indicates, Play Tygers Friday.

AKRON WEST bowed to Canton McKinley by a 42 to 38 count, while the Tygers fell before the Bulldogs by a 38 to 31 margin.

But the Mansfield high hoopsters showed considerable more class against New Philadelphia, losing 26 to 24. The Cowboys took it on the chin by a 38 to 23 count from the Quakers.

Battle Looms.

The comparison of these games indicate that Friday night's tussle between the Mansfield and Akron West quints at the Tyger lair might develop into a spectacular battle.

On the season records, Mansfield has it all over the Cowboys, but Coach Russ Murphy is not disregarding the battle West put up against the Canton club.

West has won only two out of eight games this season, while the Tygers have registered five wins against the same number of defeats.

Despite the six defeats, the Cowboys, strange as it may seem, are in the thick of the city title race. All of the setbacks were administered in non-league games. They won the only city league battles that they have played.

West, which won the state championship a couple of years ago, is the defending city champion.

The Cowboys' victories were hung up at the expense of Akron Hower Vocational, 37 to 13, and Akron East, 26 to 25. The victory over East was the season's biggest upset in the Akron. In view of this victory, West is hard to dope in the current Akron race.

Forwards Are Fast.

West will have Howard Jordan and Jimmy Ziruolo at the forwards Friday. They are not tall as basketball players go, but they are fast and fairly good shots, according to reports from Akron. Morton Leeper will be at center, while Jack Spreadbury and Bob McCloskey will hold down the guards. Jordan is the leading scorer of the club, but Spreadbury is rated as the best cager possessed by Coach Russ Beichley.

The Tygers were to complete their workouts for the game with a drill this afternoon.

Arlo Willet Succeeds Query as Cage Coach.

Assistant Coach Arlo Willet was named head basketball coach at Shelby high school for the balance of the season today when William Query relinquished the post because of an eye ailment. Raymond Hatch will be Willet's assistant. Query will continue his teaching duties, Supt. R. C. Keck announced.

Query, who piloted the Whippets to a tie for the N. C. O. title in football last year, has been bothered by eye trouble since last fall, and gave up basketball at the advice of his physician.

Miller Dairys Rip Foe In Overtime

Field goals by Jim Heiser and Nil Moritz and a foul throw by Jim Elliott in an overtime period enabled the Miller Dairys to defeat Hayesville 49 to 44, at Hayesville last night. The lead switched frequently in the fast game, with the hosts holding a 22 to 17 advantage at the half.

Bill Moritz was the outstanding player on the court last night as he garnered 26 points for the Dairys

Two More Victories Will Cinch Title Tie For Madison, Unbeaten In Eight Loop Tilts

MADISON high school cagers will soon be acclaimed champions of the Richland county leagues unless their rivals do something about stopping them.

The Mansfield suburban school has won eight straight championship tussles, with only four more to go.

This means that to knock the Rams out of the title the other members of the circuit must kayo the Madisons in three of their four remaining games.

Madison now sports a two-game lead over Butler, and Coach Al Fendrick's men need only two victories in their remaining tilts to cinch a tie for the crown.

Three defeats will enable the Bulldogs of Butler to creep into the throne room ahead of the Rams. This is, of course, if Coach Bob Burgett's hoopsters continue their winning ways.

Starting with Lexington Friday night, Madison has a tough set of games confronting it in the home stretch. After the game with the Minutemen on the Lexington court, the Rams must meet Lucas, Bellville and Butler in that order.

Lexington will be no setup Friday night, you can be well assured of that. The Rams were forced to the limit to trim the Minutemen, 31 to 29, in their first meeting.

Lucas held the Rams to a 27 to 26 victory, and Butler bowed by a 15 to 14 count. Of the remaining foes, Bellville was the only club which the Fendrickmen took into camp in rather easy fashion, winning 23 to 12.

While Madison and Lexington are battling Friday, Lucas will perform at Ontario and Union will play at Bellville. The Lucas-Ontario tussle should be a humdinger, and plenty of fur should fly in the other game, too, as Bellville and Union are involved in a fight for sixth place.

The First Lutheran team's major rivals for the Class A Church league title dropped farther behind the pace-setter in last night's games at the Y. M. C. A.

Defeating Episcopal, 25 to 17, for their eighth straight victory, the Lutherans lengthened their lead to two games over First M. E., beaten by Park Avenue Baptist, 21 to 15, and three over Mayflower Congregational, defeated by Temple Emanuel, 21 to 19. The Baptists moved into a tie with Mayflower for third place.

The Lutherans had anything but an easy time disposing of Episcopal. Trailing 10 to 9 at the half, the Lutherans obtained a 15 to 14 lead in the third period, and then spurted in the final frame to gain their margin.

First M. E. was never in the ball game after the first period, when it led 7 to 6. The Baptists held a 15 to 11 advantage at the half, and permitted the Methodists only four points in the final periods.

Mayflower also encountered more trouble than it could handle, and trailed all the way, the scoring being 12 to 10 at the half. Mayflower, led by Russell Russell's 12 points, was held scoreless in the third quarter.

St. John Evangelical won its second game of the season to crawl out of a tie with Episcopal for last place by defeating Central M. E., 25 to 22, Augustine tallying 14 points for the winner.

Indians To Take 38 To Training Camp

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The largest training camp roster in 10 years, 38 men, was announced today by the Cleveland Indians.

Chief among the additions are Johnny Broaca, once a Yankee hurler, Paul Sullivan, southpaw pitcher who once worked for Detroit, and Ben Chapman, former Yankee outfielder. Chief threat to the regulars is Oscar Grimes, who stands a good chance of getting Sammy Hale's second base job. Grimes played with Milwaukee last year.

Perrysville Rally Beats Simpson Club

Bulldogs Drop Game, 35-30, on Home Court.

Simpson Junior high school cagers found the Perrysville high school varsity a bit too tough on the Mansfield high court last night and bowed by a 35 to 30 margin.

But Coach Jeff DeHaven's proteges did not admit defeat until the final period.

The visitors outscored the Simpsonites, 12 to 3, in the fourth period to enable them to outpoint the Mansfield quintet, which was slightly weakened by mid-season graduation.

Simpson and Perrysville battled to a 9 to 9 tie in the first period, but the Admirals jumped into a 21 to 20 lead in the second quarter. The Bulldogs held a 27 to 23 advantage going into the fourth stanza in which they fell victim to the Perrysville rally.

Hager, with 10 points Krupp, 9, and Romana, 8, led the Simpsonites, while Christopher was high for the invaders with 10.

The Simpson 7th-8th grade team defeated the Perrysville grade quint, 18 to 2, the visitors being allowed only two free throws. Baker paced the Simpson club with nine points.

Blue Goose Not Out of Race Yet

First half championship honors will be at stake tonight when the Senior A league teams stage their weekly games at the Friendly House.

A victory for the Rex Billiards, who meet Augustine's Canfield Oils at 7:45, will cinch the crown A defeat for the Billiards will enable the Blue Goose Sohioans to tie for the title. The Sohioans, who handed the Cuemen their first league defeat last week, meet the Musille Cigars at 8:45.

The Raemelton Farm and Miller Dairys teams open the program at 6.45 p. m.

Set for Scots

SPRAGUE, FORWARD

ASHLAND—Having passed a crucial test Saturday night in defeating Capital cagers 56-43, Ashland college basketball squad will play another tough rival at Wooster Saturday night when it meets the Scots on their home court.

Nine wins and one loss (Kent State) make up the Eagles' record thus far, but Coach Frank "Tony" Lonero feels that the going has been comparatively easy up to the Capital game and that the test of Eagle strength comes from here on in.

Spectacular Jim Richcreek, the nimble Nappanee, Ind., sophomore guard, continues as high scorer on the squad, with Bob Sprague, Ashland, forward, a close second. Both are expected to start against Wooster.

Tangle Friday In Semi-Final

Stratton, Dugan to Clash in Armory Ring.

Walter Stratton, brillian light-heavyweight contender from Letonia, O., will meet Ernie Dugan of Omaha in the semi-final of Friday's wrestling program in the Armory. The bout was signed yesterday by officials of the Quality club and the men will wrestle for two falls with a 45-minute time limit.

Ace attraction of the card will be the world light-heavyweight title match between the Great Mephisto and Whitey Wahlberg of Duluth, Minn. Mephisto regained his crown in Columbus a bit more than two weeks ago when he defeated Billy Weidner before a crowd of 6480 spectators. Weidner came out of the match with his left leg ripped to the bone and was forced to cancel all bookings. He is now enroute to Florida, where he plans to recuperate from the grueling match.

On more match will be added to the program and it seems likely that Lon Chaney of Chicago will be one of the principals.

Lack of Support Discourages Cohen

Unless more interest is shown in the city, Mansfield will not be represented in the Ohio State league this year, Atty. Norman Cohen of Toledo, who owns an option on the Mansfield franchise, revealed last night.

Cohen was in the city last night to confer with several groups regarding a season ticket sale, but was refused cooperation, it was learned.

The Toledo attorney said that he did not seek any financial assistance, but stated that it was the custom of other cities to conduct ticket sales for the sponsor.

Cohen has not determined his next step, but said he has been invited to operate in two other cities. He refused to reveal the cities.

Offered Chance To Win

Handicaps Make It Possible for Dubs to Outbowl Stars in Individual Classic.

STAR bowlers have the advantage in the majority of tournaments, but not in The News-Journal Individual Sweepstakes, which opens at the Meder Recreation alleys Saturday.

Mansfield high average bowlers have no better chance to cop the major prizes in The News-Journal event than the so-called dubs and novices.

Tourney Favors Novices.

A bowler sporting a 150, or a 120 average, for that matter, will bowl on equal terms with the 200-average kegler in The News-Journal Sweepstakes. To say that he has an even chance is probably putting it a bit mildly. He has a better chance, in fact.

All handicap tournaments as The News-Journal Sweepstakes favor the less capable kegler because his chances of bowling above his average are greater than the star pinster. Statistics will bear out this statement.

Results of the 1938 city tournament, also conducted on a handicap basis, prove that the low average bowler has an advantage in a handicap competition.

These facts should attract one of the largest entries ever to compete in a Mansfield tournament.

Each participant will bowl four games across eight alleys. In the men's division, the bowling will be confined to alleys 1 to 8. Women keglers will vie on the lower alleys.

Incidentally, the women's shifts will be held only on the coming Sunday, the shifts being scheduled at 2 and 4 p. m.

First prize in the men's division is $25, with $10 the top award in the feminine bracket. These two prizes are guaranteed by The News-Journal. The amounts of the other prizes will be determined by percentage.

It costs only $1 to bowl. This is the only cost, too. Twenty cents of each $1 will go into the prize fund.

Urged To Enter.

Bowlers wishing to bowl on any particular shift are urged to register immediately at the Meder alleys. Schedules are now being drawn up for each day of the tournament. Choice shifts remain open, but they may be filled by nightfall. So, don't delay.

The tournament opens at 3 p. m. Saturday, with shifts following every hour and a half. Sunday's first shift is scheduled at 2 p. m. All of the competition will be conducted over two week-ends, with the tournament closing Sunday, Feb. 12.

DUAL WRESTLING MEET CHANGED TO AFTERNOON

Saturday's dual wrestling meet between the Tygers and Columbus South will be staged at Mansfield high at 1:30 p. m. Saturday instead of in the evening as previously announced, Coach F. B. Million said today. The time of the meet was changed to permit the Columbus wrestlers to return to night jobs.

FLOYD ROBERTS
1938 National Race Champion
Champion race drivers, whose very lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction and that is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

FIRESTONE triumphs again! This time with the new Firestone Champion, the tire that sets the safety standards for 1939. This new tire provides a combination of safety features never before built into a tire. It is a completely new achievement in safety engineering.

From the experience gained on the speedways of the world and in the Firestone laboratories, Firestone engineers have developed a revolutionary new type of cord body called Safety-Lock, which provides amazingly greater strength. This outstanding achievement makes possible the use of a thicker, tougher, deeper tread which assures much greater non-skid mileage. Because of this new Safety-Lock Cord body and Gear-Grip tread, the modern streamlined Firestone Champion Tire establishes completely new standards of blowout protection, non-skid safety, silent operation and long mileage.

The Firestone Champion Tire embodies the famous Firestone Triple-Safe construction — you get the exclusive and patented Firestone construction features of Gum-Dipping, two extra layers of Safety-Lock cords under the tread and Gear-Grip tread design. Never in all the history of tire building has there been such a triple-safe combination to protect you against the dangers of blowouts, punctures and skidding.

STEELS, MOTORS PROMINENT IN MARKET RALLY

Aircrafts, Utilities Also Join Upturn as Signs Point to Trade Recovery.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Renewed buying in steels, motors, aircrafts and utilities turned the stock market toward the rallying side today.

In front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aicraft, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, North American Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, American Smelting, Union carbide, Du Pont and N. Y. Central. Bonds and commodities did better after a hesitant start.

Boardrooms found some comfort in trade forecasts that wholesale activities soon should resume the upturn which was pronounced in December.

Those watching building material shares noted the figures of the Engineering News-Record which indicated this week's construction awards topped the previous week by 19 per cent but were 17 per cent below the same 1938 week.

The February review of the National City Bank of New York said "the cumulative forces of the trade cycle" in the United States should be toward recovery.

VOTE NEAR ON MATCHING BILL

But Kelley Sees No Help to City in Emergency Relief Bill of $5,000,000.

today. The senate passed it, 32 to 2 as an emergency measure.

It will become law when the governor affixes his signature and the welfare director is prepared to immediately allocate funds to distressed communities.

House leaders have indicated that the lower branch would concur in the two amendments which the senate inserted, one which would credit January relief expenditures to matching funds and the other setting up county relief clearing houses.

Sen. Leo M. Ascherman (D-Cleveland) attempted to amend the bill on the senate floor to include that municipalities be credited with WPA expenditures in matching state relief money.

The Republican majority, under the whip of Floor Leader Frank E. Whittemore, Akron, repulsed this action by a 25 to 8 vote. The house previously had knocked out the WPA matching clause in committee on the insistence of Governor Bricker, who claimed that the plan constituted "fictitious matching."

The house prepared to act when it meets at 12:30 p. m. today on concurrence in senate amendments to the liquid fuel tax bill extending the tax for two years and reverting revenues to the general revenue fund.

Concurrence of the house in senate amendments to the Mees cigaret tax extender bill was accomplished yesterday.

The senate confirmed Governor Bricker's appointments of Dr. R. H. Markwith, Akron, as director of health at $6,500 a year and George C. McConnaughey, Cleveland, as a member of the utilities commission at $6,000 a year.

DR. F. M. EDWARDS' DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

Benefits Nation of Sufferers!

COLUMBUS, OHIO: For over 20 years Dr. F. M. Edwards (widely known physician) successfully treated scores of patients for constipation and the headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness which often result.

This wise Doctor knew liver bile must flow freely every day into your intestines or fatty foods can't be properly digested and you may become constipated. So he kept this in mind when he perfected his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are harmless, yet they assure gentle, thorough bowel movements and ALSO help stimulate bile flow. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15c, 30c, 60c.

come from his office, but that Sherwood "has my staunch support."

While Woodard and Amrine conferred this morning, more than a half dozen prisoners were called from their cells to the warden's office, presumably to be interviewed concerning Sherwood's charges.

'Too Early Yet.'

"It's too early yet to say anything about the investigation," Woodard said. "So far we have found no evidence that the reports (concerning drug and liquor traffic) are true."

Amrine said he had been assigned to co-operate with the warden.

The director told Woodard during a conference late yesterday that the "mess" must be cleaned up or he would lose his job.

"I have definite evidence of the traffic," Sherwood declared later. "This is not reflection upon the integrity of Warden Woodard, and I have complete confidence that he will be able to clean up the mess."

Sherwood said the warden was "heartily in accord" with the investigation, although he did not believe conditions to be "as bad as painted." Amrine, newly appointed superintendent of corrections, was assigned to assist in the inquiry. Amrine attended yesterday's conference.

Buy 'Special Favors.'

Not only did the drug and liquor traffic exist, Sherwood said he had learned, but special favors were being purchased by some convicts "from guards who are not loyal to their warden."

"It will be necessary to strengthen materially the discipline for guards and convicts as well as stamp out the illegal traffic," he added.

Information given him in affidavits and statements by former and present employes of the prison led to his demand for a cleanup, Sherwood said, adding he had discussed the matter earlier with Woodard.

The investigation, another of a series involving the prison, was demanded four years to the day after Woodard was named warden by Former Gov. Martin L. Davey.

In January, 1935, Davey initiated a senate investigation of the prison and lodged charges of maladministration against Warden Preston E. Thomas. During a hearing on the ouster proceedings, Thomas resigned and the charges were dropped. On Feb. 1, Davey promoted Woodard from deputy warden to warden.

Current reports that Amrine would succeed Woodard should the warden be ousted were termed conjecture by Sherwood.

"I am not after Woodard's job," the director said.

Sherwood said that Amrine also would check on conditions at other state penal institutions, but that from information available now there were no situations as "unsavory" as the penitentiary.

in Europe and pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt had made clear that not a single American soldier would fight in Europe.

Bitterly opposed to the viewpoint that the survival of Britain and France as world powers is essential to defense of the Americas were the strict isolationists in the United States—a powerful factor in any congressional battle over foreign policy.

Former President Herbert Hoover supported the congressional bloc opposing Mr. Roosevelt when, in a speech last night, he warned that such a course as suggested might provoke international ill will and possibly would lead the United States to, rather than away from war.

In the senate, where debate on the president's program boiled to a high point, the Republican members of the senate military affairs committee endorsed the idea of selling military planes aboard but emphasized that they should be sold to any power that desired to buy.

They—with backing of many Democratic senators—called upon the congress and the administration to make public the committee's national defense hearings so that the nation might be informed and permitted to judge for itself how grave the danger and what should be done about it.

"Vendol Has Made Me Feel Like A Different Person"

Mansfield young lady was weak, thin, nervous and run down. Appetite was poor, felt dizzy, and head ached most all the time. Gives all credit to Vendol for wonderful improvement.

MISS CLELA BOSS

"If anyone ever needed a medicine to build them up and make life seem worth living, I was that person," says Miss Clela Boss, attractive young lady living at 32 Woodland Ave., Mansfield, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store recently.

"I had hardly any appetite at all, yet the little food I did eat distressed me terribly with indigestion. I would feel full and bloated from gas, and my heart would palpitate something awful. This upset stomach condition caused my head to throb and ache for hours, and if I got up or bent over quickly, I'd feel so dizzy everything seemed to whirl around. This all got on my nerves so bad that the least little thing upset me and made me tremble all over at any little excitement. I didn't have any pep or energy at all, just felt tired, wornout and sluggish all the time, and just seemed to ache all over.

"I decided to try the Vendol treatment, to see if it would help me as it had so many other people here in town, and it is hard to believe that any medicine could make such an improvement in anyone as it has in me in such a short time. With the aid of the little laxative tablets, constipation was soon relieved, and within a week I could tell Vendol was helping me. My appetite picked up wonderfully and now I look forward to mealtime. Everything digests as it should, no more indigestion or gas, and since my stomach is settled, the headaches and dizzy spells no longer bother me. Best of all, my nerves have quieted down wonderfully, and I'm gaining strength and energy every day, and am rid of that tired, wornout feeling. I sleep well and enjoy life more since I'm feeling so good, and I think Vendol is one wonderful medicine, for it has made me feel like an entirely different person."

Vendol is sold and highly recommended by leading druggists everywhere, and you can always get it at the Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., where the Vendol Man is on hand to explain all about it. Come see him today if possible.

CITY PROTESTS SURVEY SET-UP

important undertakings in the city," the mayor pointed out. "We have known for a long time that if we expect to make necessary improvements in the city's sewer system we must have a comprehensive survey of what the system is now and what is needed. The state department of health has repeatedly demanded such a survey and has twice refused to approve extensions in the system until the survey is completed.

"Now that we have been able to get started on it, and have about reached the point where progress would satisfy the state health department and allow for the much needed extensions, WPA takes the man off the job." Owen W. Stroup has been employed on the survey.

Would Cost City $100.

He pointed out that in order to keep the man employed on the survey it would be necessary for city council to appropriate $100 to pay him during the three-week period that RPI officials have said would lapse before the city records project would be re-opened and the sewer survey continued.

Meanwhile, William H. VanDerVert, supervisor, admitted that while there was 40 employes on the RPI project today, they had all been transferred from the other three projects. He said however, that additional jobs would be created Feb. 15, when new workers are to be put on the job.

Van DerVert said that the project had been designed to employ 90 persons, and that with only half that number it seemed quite probable that the project would run for at least 10 months.

Mayor Hunter, at a meeting with RPI officials this morning, charged them of "robbing" other city projects in which the city has invested funds.

He explained however, that the city was apparently at WPA's mercy and that there wasn't much he could do about it.

Van DerVert promised the mayor that the city records projects would be reopened within three weeks and that he could expect the draftsman back on the survey at that time. In the meantime, he suggested that the city pay the man's wages so the survey would not be held up.

Hunter said he would seek an appropriation from council Tuesday night to keep the sewer survey going after Statler said he could not divert any of the $500 set aside in the department's annual appropriation to conduct the survey, to pay the man's wages.

Stolen Car Sought By Police Found Block From Station

SHELBY — Search for a car stolen from a Shelby street Monday night ended just one block from the police station.

The car, owned by Urban Fisher, 12 Steel avenue, was recovered in the garage operated by Sam Vanasdale, where it was being repaired after an accident on West Main street road shortly after it was stolen.

Vanasdale notified police that the car sought was in his garage after reading of the theft in Tuesday's paper.

Clues provided by motorists, who saw the suspect leave the car at the scene of the accident; a taxi driver, who drove the suspect to Mansfield, and Vanasdale resulted in the arrest of a man who gave his name as Franklin Lewis, 15 North Benton street, Mansfield, yesterday.

Lewis waived examination and pleaded not guilty to the charge of operating a vehicle without the owner's consent when he appeared in Mayor D. B. Young's court today.

He was bound over to the common pleas court on $200 bond.

FLOOD OF BILLS, PETITIONS JAM COUNCIL HOPPER

Ordinance Prohibiting Sunday Sale of 3.2 Beer Heads Tuesday's Docket.

The city's legislative hopper was filled to the brim today with an almost unprecedented flood of ordinances, resolutions and petitions scheduled to come before council for action Tuesday night.

Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr. said the docket was the heaviest since the record session in July, 1937.

The major issue facing council is a measure prohibiting the Sunday sale of 3.2 beer. The measure, which has already received two readings, comes up for final action Tuesday. It needs only a majority vote to pass. If approved, it would become a law in 30 days unless vetoed by Mayor Claude M. Hunter.

Another ordinance, one which will be given a second reading, provides for the installation of parking meters. A protest and an endorsement of the plan are on file.

While little or no comment is expected, an endorsement of the measure by Pomona Grange, representing 1,100 Richland county farmers, will be read as well as a protest from the Union Grange, one of the chapters in the northern part of the county.

James E. Crum, chairman of council's parking meters committee which sponsored the legislation, was out of the city today and could not be reached for comment, although he had previously said that he would call for a second reading tonight.

Aimed at Solicitors.

Aimed at halting fraudulent promotional schemes, Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today that he would sponsor an ordinance that would call for the registration of all solicitors in the city.

The chief said that the legislation now being prepared by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward would make it mandatory that all solicitors register at police headquarters and be fingerprinted.

The measure would protect legitimate solicitors against fake promoters and keep undesirables out of the city, he said.

Also before council for consideration is a communication from City Auditor Paul L. Kelley outlining possible contributions which the city has been requested to make to the Ohio Unemployment Compensation commission.

Kelley says in his letter that while a representative of the commission has pointed out that employes in three city departments, the water, parks and sanitary sewer, should be covered by the insurance program, that opinions of various attorney generals have differed.

Another ordinance of which approval will be asked authorizes the issuance of $60,000 in notes in the anticipation of the collection of the 1939 property tax collection.

Kelley explained that the loan is being asked as a protective measure because delayed tax collections may cripple the city's general fund.

Other Measures.

Council will also be asked to:

Authorize the purchase of a new police cruiser and the sale of a two-year-old squad car and a new heavy duty truck for the street department.

Approve a measure raising the city's contribution to the county humane officer's wages from $30 to $50 a month.

Amend the sewage plant ordinance by classifying a laborer in that division as an operator, providing a pay increase of $122 annually.

Petitions to be acted on include:

A request from property owners on Schmitt court for the construction of a water line.

A request from Grover avenue residents for establishing the grade and laying a water line on that street.

A request from James M. Dickson for the construction of a sanitary sewer on Cook road and assessing the cost against his property.

Claims to be considered have been submitted by:

Henry J. Brumenshenkel for $200 architect fees for designing the Liberty park building.

Frank G. Witters for damages to property on Central avenue as the result of a street improvement two years ago and a claim of $300 for damages from the same improvement, submitted by J. Boyd Hicks of Cleveland, owner of another property.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or county passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. Then poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Last year was an outstanding one in biographies written for young people.

"Leader By Destiny" by Jeanette Eaton, is a very fine life of George Washington. The make-up of the book is unusually attractive, with large, clear print and really lovely illustrations.

"Deep-Flowing Brook" by Madeleine Goss is the story of Johann Sebastian Bach. The boys and girls who enjoyed "Sebastian Bach, the Boy From Thuringia" will read this new and longer life with a great deal of pleasure.

"Penn" by Elizabeth Janet Gray is a much-needed life of William Penn, that far-sighted statesman who played such an important part in the history of the colonies and especially Pennsylvania.

"The Happy Autocrat" by Hildegarde Hawthorne is a life of Oliver Wendell Holmes, one of America's best-loved poets.

"Pasteur, Knight of the Laboratory" by Francis E. Benz is the story of a man whose whole life was dedicated to saving the lives of others.

Blamed For Third of Nation's Toll In 1938, Reports Show.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Heart disease was shown by Chicago board of health statistics to have caused nearly one-third of all deaths in this city during 1938. Of approximately 35,000 deaths from all causes 11,381, or 32.5 per cent, were due to heart ailments. This is the highest percentage registered in the last six years.

The stress of modern living, worry and improper diets are some of the leading causes blamed for the trouble.

Book of the Week

"SEVEN SEAS ON A SHOESTRING," by Dwight Long; (Harpers: $3.50).

WE JUST have finished Dwight Long's "Seven Seas on a Shoestring." We put it down with regret, and in years of reading from six to three times six books a week we have usually been glad to be free of even the best books. Reviewing books makes a chore out of what should be a pleasure.

Anyway, Long's book is incomparably the best travel book of the last few years, in this reader's opinion. The general outline is like many of the rest—Long sailed a 32-foot ketch around the world, starting at Seattle. He went by way of San Francisco, Los Angeles, the Sandwich Islands, the South Seas, the Java Sea, Ceylon, the Red Sea and so forth. The shoestring part of the title is to be taken literally—often he reached a port with no more idea of how he would bail himself out than you might have, safely at home in Ypsilanti.

But this Seattle boy (he started the cruise at 21) had courage, strength, brains, curiosity, and a capacity for friendship quite out of the ordinary. People liked him, and he liked people, excepting missionaries and the American consul in Surabaya. When he wanted to know people he simply went up to them, not brashly, but with the candor of youth. Herbert Hoover gave Long some jeweled fishing gear.

Many people gave him jobs so he could earn enough to keep going. A Tahitian woman gave him Timi, her son, as shipmate. The Martin Johnson were so grateful for Long's help that they gave him a camera. Alain Gerbault, notoriously unsocial, was so pleased with the Seattle lad that he rigged his ketch for him. Countless people did large and small services; quite obviously they enjoyed doing them.

The "Idle Hour" was in trouble dozens of times. She was nearly swamped again and again; she almost burned; she narrowly missed reefs known and unknown. Long navigated her from Seattle well into the South Seas on a pocket watch, successfully though dangerously. And he has produced a narrative which is full of literary cliches, and still fuller of information, color and sincerity.

Lastly, the story of Long and Timi, the Tahitian, is a great epic of friendship.

THE MANSFIELD NEWS AND MANSFIELD JOURNAL.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1939.

A man was arrested this week for operating a race book—but it happened in Columbus.

There is such a thing, too, as a nation spending so much for defense that it hasn't anything left to defend.

Now that George Burns is "out on good behavior" for a year and a day, the much-touted derelictions of Gracie's relatives may become a touchy subject.

The Forgotten People.

"THE government's policy of steadily lowering interest rates," says Orval W. Adams, former president of the American Bankers association, "is out of all reason."

It has made the owners of savings deposits and insurance policies the "forgotten people," on whom up to $800,000,000 of "invisible taxes" are levied each year. He stated that 44,000,000 depositors alone have been forced to accept a reduction of around 50 per cent in the income received from their savings, in order that the government can finance its gigantic spending program with securities bearing an excessively low rate of interest.

Commenting on this, the New York Herald Tribune observes that only a few years ago the man who wanted to put something aside against the time when he would not be able to earn a living any longer could expect from 4 to 5 per cent on his savings with complete safety. Today the best he can expect is half that return. This means that the man who could assure himself at least a living income in his old age by saving, say $25,000, now has to save just twice that amount to produce the same annuity."

There has been criticism of banks for reducing interest paid on deposits. But it is obvious that no bank can maintain its interest rate when return from its investments is going steadily down from causes beyond its control. Government policy is responsible for cheapening money to such an extent that few can look forward to an old age in which they can be comfortably supported by income from invested savings.

Mansfield As a Meeting Place.

SUCH occasions as bring to Mansfield large or small groups of people from other cities and states, for conventions, conferences or sales meetings, tend to benefit this city in ways that are sometimes given little thought.

Aside from Mansfield's advantageous location as a convention city for district and state meetings, several of the city's large industries are responsible for quite frequent gatherings of their sales department representatives, for a visit to the factory, introduction of new models and interchange of ideas.

This accounts for the presence in Mansfield, for several days, of almost a hundred representatives of the Tappan Stove company, from all parts of the United States. While the conference sessions have to do with the business of producing and distributing gas ranges, these visitors also have opportunity to get acquainted with Mansfield and form impressions that will last through many years. It is hoped that they like Mansfield and that their visit will be pleasant and profitable.

The knack of welcoming and entertaining visitors is one to which a number of cities give much attention, through various civic organizations.

Whatever can be done in Mansfield to increase attractiveness and facilities as a convention city, and to encourage group meetings here, should not be overlooked.

Manton's Resignation Accepted.

QUICK acceptance of the resignation of Martin T. Manton as judge of the United States circuit court of appeals in New York, indicates that, regardless of the outcome of charges against him, Manton is no longer regarded as a fit person to continue in the high judicial position he has held since 1918.

However tolerant of human weaknesses people may be, there is a well defined belief that the personal probity of men who are charged with the responsibility of judging others should be above reproach.

While Manton's resignation forestalls intended investigation by the house judiciary committee, it should not be permitted to prevent continuance of the grand jury investigation being made in New York to determine whether there have been violations of criminal law in connection with charges made against the jurist by District Attorney Dewey.

Student Help for Students.

THE recently organized Intercollegiate Committee to Aid Student Refugees has set itself a task which will be as beneficial educationally to those supporting it as to those helped. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish students in American colleges and universities plan to raise funds to enable student victims of Fascist oppression abroad to complete their studies in this country. It is hoped to raise enough money to take care of living expenses as well as tuition.

The movement is sponsored by Mayor La Guardia, Representative Bruce Barton, the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Msgr. John A. Ryan, and Presidents Hutchins of Chicago and Wilbur of Stanford universities. It is an outgrowth of Harvard university's offer of twenty refugee scholarships of $500 each, on condition that students and faculty raise an equal sum for living expenses.

American students who contribute to the work will show their own appreciation of religious and racial tolerance. Even those who do not at first participate in this enlightened generosity are likely to learn from it and profit by it in the end. Such a movement is not only evidence that American students understand the basis of their country's freedom and progress, but seems to guarantee their continued and sincere devotion to it.

Bad Effect of Hate.

AN UNUSUAL statement comes from Senator Reynolds of North Carolina.

"I love everybody," says the senator. "I don't hate anybody. You know why? Because hate makes you age quicker than anything else in the world."

That's a plenty good enough reason, if you haven't a better one. It is to be recommended to a lot of people on both sides of controversial questions.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—There is an opening in the senate for a man with a flow of fine flowery words edged with wit and humor.

It would be possible, in fact, to forget the fine and flowery diction if only a new face would show up with wit and humor. It is too late to pick one out of the electorate. That chance passed last November. But there are a number of new and comparatively untried senatorial fledglings who could make a public career for themselves if they only would barb their quips and at the same time grace them with good humor. Of the dozen or so "Young Turks" of the 1932, '34, or '36 vintage, there were many serious minds but not a solitary one has blossomed yet into a worthy ribber.

It is a dangerous business—at least more dangerous than simply being a placid senatorial stick. Senators jabbed by a prickly wit will gang up to take him down a peg, and be it recorded there is nothing so flat as a deflated wit. But a man who can take it from all sides can be the subject of headlines and parlor conversation until the end of time.

Huey the Master.

THE late Huey Long was the latest complete master. He once took on three senators at a time, backed one after another blushing into his seat by pointing out their own political tomfooleries and then rubbed it in mercilessly by adding:

"When you want a fight, don't pick on a porcupine."

He spent hours goading the late Majority Leader Robinson into a lather of fury and only once was taken into camp. Senator Ashurst of Arizona, scholar, wit and gentleman extraordinary, left Huey fairly jibbering by excoriating him in exquisite but telling language to which even the Kingfish could not reply. He didn't bite another senator for days.

There are only two senators now with a flair for wit and the bravery to exercise it, and each is proficient only in limited fields. Besides Senator Ashurst, there is Senator Tom Connally of Texas who will boldly wave aside a telling point in argument in order to make a wise crack or point up a good story.

Holt Looked Promising.

YOUNG Senator Holt of West Virginia came up with a reputation for sharp wit and telling punches. But he has spent four years of his six-year term in an unpromising cock-fight with his colleague, Senator Neely.

Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, youngish, widely traveled and brassy as a cornet, has the makings. His home state political speeches often are a public picnic. But in the senate, he drowns his wit in an ocean of words. A two-hour speech is just a warm-up for him.

Calvin Coolidge once warned that this business of being a political funny man was a profitless one. In his magazine autobiography he told of writing a satirical and witty piece to deliver at a banquet while he was in college. His barbs hurt several people, he felt sure, and undermined his own dignity. He vowed then never to be so humorous again. It is a matter of history that he almost never was.

Speedy U. S. Aid To Chile Helps

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Deplorable as Chile's earthquake was, it did come at a handy time to solidify Latin-American sentiment back of Uncle Sam's western hemispherical good neighborly policy.

The United States' reaction of sympathy and helpfulness was just what might have been expected, but it was a very prompt reaction, all the same, and a very liberal one. Naturally the "Chilenos" appreciate it. Furthermore it served as a potent hint to the other southerly republics that no great country elsewhere is so well situated, geographically and financially, to lend aid to any of them, in time of emergency, as is Yankee-land.

Germany and Italy, our chief rivals in their part of the world, are too far away to accomplish much in the face of a capital disaster on our half of the globe. They haven't the resources, either. One hears recognition of this fact reflected from all the Latin-American embassies and legations in Washington. Of course no European or Asiatic government neglected to inform Chile how sorry it was, but that was all the good it did for the sufferers. The U. S. A. sent more than regrets; it rushed money, medicines, men and relief of all sorts.

Chile is an extremely poor republic, utterly unequipped to cope with so sudden and formidable a catastrophe. The quake victims' sufferings were terrible, unavoidably, but Yankee assistance did something toward taking the curse off and all Latin America knows it.

To be sure, Latin folk east of the Andes are little subject to earthquakes, but they can have other varieties of large-scale misfortunes, and Uncle Samuel has had a chance to figure as a valuable friend in need whenever required.

Oh, it was an awful earthquake, but, if there had to be one, it wasn't untimely, Pan-Americanly speaking.

Coming after that Lima conference, in its way it could not have been improved on.

Nazi-Fascists Squelched.

Although eastern South America does not have earthquakes, it does have totalitarian activities.

One of these has just been squelched by President Vargas of Brazil, with the arrest of Plinio Salgado, who was trying to stir up an Integral Action revolution in Sao Paulo. Sao Paulo, though not Brazil's capital (which is Rio de Janeiro) is the republic's principal city (about the size of Chicago), and Sao Paulo state is a big enough tail to wag the bulk of the Brazilian dog. Therefore a Sao Paulo rebellion would be bad business for the whole country. The Integral Action party is partly Fascist, partly Nazi. But it is mainly Nazi, because southern Brazil (Sao Paulo) is predominantly German. Thus this thing, had it eventuated, would have given Germany a dangerous Brazilian foothold—dangerous from the standpoint of the United States.

President Vargas is pretty much a dictator himself. However, he is not pro-German or pro-Italian; he is pro-U. S. A.

And he has Salgado and Salgado's chief lieutenants in jail.

Not So Bad.

All this is tolerably satisfactory. Uncle Sam has had a "favorable" earthquake on the South American west coast, in Chile. He has had an undesirable would-be revolution suppressed on the South American east coast, in Brazil.

Brazil and Chile are two of South America's three most important countries. The third is Argentina. The Argentine Republic is rather cold toward us. Primarily it is native; then German, British and Italian, mixed.

The rest of Latin America is fairly friendly to us now—possibly excepting Mexico, which clashes with us a bit over the question of oil. That issue remains to be adjusted.

Incidentally, Latin America is in default to us on certain commercial loans. Senator Hiram Johnson does not want us to be allowed to make any further Latin-American advances until those obligations are met. But they are different from our claims against Europe.

Europe deliberately has repudiated its war debts to the U. S. A. In Latin America, we simply made some bad investments, and lost out, just as occasionally we do at home. We patriotically advanced several billions to our European associates in war time, and they dumped us. We are supposed to use some business judgment in making Latin-American loans.

Health Advice

Light and Air Best Health Doctors.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A VERY LARGE part of my correspondence from readers concerns inquiries about the skin. Young people especially are tortured by acne or pimples. Others ask perennially about psoriasis. I wish I could answer these questions more satisfactorily. Some cases are easy to clear up, but the stubborn ones are very difficult.

With any skin, however, there are some simple rules of hygiene and diet which do much to keep a clear, glowing appearance.

Light and air are the best skin doctors. Some modern ladies keep their faces so constantly covered with paint and powder that the skin never has a chance to breathe. The whole skin should regularly be exposed to light and especially to air. And it needs more attention these winter days than in the summer.

Necessary food constituents go to nourish the skin from within. The skin can be cleaned externally by a bath but it needs an internal bath also and certain foods are recognized for their nourishing effect on the skin.

Eat Onions.

The onion is highly praised by experts on this account. Humble, and often despised, it is within reach of all. It is rich in sulphur, which the old wives think is a good skin food, as witness the sulphur and molasses tonic. We are getting near the spring tonic season and it is just as well to anticipate it.

Not only sulphur, but iron is an important skin tonic. The foods which contain sulphur and iron are onions, sprouts, cabbage, celery, beetroot, radishes, endive, cauliflower and red cabbage. They are all best eaten raw.

The following are rich in iron: Watercress, spinach, prunes, raisins, dried apricots, parsley, olives, dandelion leaves and roots, and all dark green vegetables.

Spinach has been praised extravagantly and with justice. It is a valuable tonic to the blood and skin. The simplest method of cooking is the best. After many rinsings to rid the leaves of grit and insect matter, simmer them slowly in their own juice for about ten minutes so that none of the value is lost in cooking. Turnip tops have the same virtues, and are cheaper.

Raw tomatoes and carrots are also good skin tonics. Carrots should not be peeled, because the skin contains a large percentage of Vitamin B. Carrots are valuable in cases of constipation.

Nuts are also valuable foods for the whole body as well as the skin. Their great food value is not often recognized and they should not be left out of a well balanced diet.

Water should be drunk freely between meals by the potential skin invalid. Fruit juices are of the utmost importance in the beauty diet.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. F. B.: "Please recommend a good book to give a child to explain the facts of life."

Answer: Step by Step in Sex Education by Ethel Hale Swift. (The Macmillan Company, 1938). Of all the books of the kind this seems to me the best to recommend to a child.

Eyes Must Look Far . . . So Must Souls.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAD a tough thing happen to me once. We'd been living in a semi-basement apartment, the Kid and I. You don't swing much swank on a $15 per week salary. The street cars bammed past the upper window pane. My "desk" was a packing box, shoved into a corner. For three years I sat at that desk, twelve hours a day, banging out copy—my nose almost hitting the wall. Not particularly exciting . . . but we didn't care. I had a job at last. We were eating. It was swell.

Then one day I noticed a cobweb before my eyes. Brushed it away—but it wouldn't go. Tried again . . . no dice. So, being busy, I forgot it. And the lil' old portable went on—clickety-click . . . clickety-click . . .

Until one night, getting up, I stumbled. The light had gone out. I pawed around . . . found the bulb . . . turned the switch . . . But nothing happened . . . I had gone blind.

The doctor was rather impatient with me. He was a stranger and very busy. He tried to be kind—but his irritation got the best of him.

"You Americans!" he snorted. "You greedy Americans, always rushing . . . rushing . . . mad for money! Always rushing to get money! Or fame! Faugh! To sit so—for months—for years, you tell me—with your eyes on that typewriter. Up against the wall. No rest! Only rush-rush! Did you know that eyes must look up . . . must look far . . . must look away? What did you expect but blindness?"

I did not answer the doctor. I knew he had spoken the truth. But I did not know how great a truth until the years had passed . . . taking my brief blindness with them . . . taking also the greater darkness of my understanding. And then I saw how right he had been . . . about more than eyes. . . .

THEN I SAW THAT SOULS MUST LOOK FAR, AS WELL AS EYES . . . OR THEY TOO WILL GO BLIND.

That short blindness of the eyes—I will always remember it with horror. But it was nothing to that other blindness I have seen . . . the blindness of those who never lifted their eyes above THEMSELVES. They were not necessarily poor, those others . . . though the trouble that came to them may hit a beggar as bitterly as a king. They did not always work in basements with their noses against walls. Always, whether they were rich or poor, there were far horizons which any man may see . . . long stretches of human experience . . . the whole great pageant of joy and sorrow . . .

But they did not look at that pageant, these others. They looked only at the hard, dark wall of their own EGOTISM. They thought only of their own small scheme of things . . .

And daily their vision narrowed to suit their thoughts . . . And daily the far horizon faded.

But found no light—

UNKNOWING, THEY HAD GONE BLIND.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why We Call Them Horse "Shoes".

It is by figurative application only that we call the metal band that encircles the bottom surface of a horse's hoof a "horseshoe"; originally, however, the usage of the term was quite literal.

Long ago the ancients discovered that the hoof of the horse at work, especially in moist climates, wore away and broke.

To prevent this erosion and loss of expensive animals, there was devised a cloth or leather covering, similar to socks, sandals and boots, which encompassed all or a greater part of the horse's hoof, and which in design was patterned after the prevailing human footgear, or "shoes."

Iron plates did not make their advent till the Second Century B. C.; they were not common till 700 years later: and it was only by the middle ages that the horseshoe, as we know it today, was in regular use.

The Chicken Man.

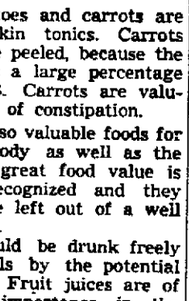
—By CALVIN A. BYERS

HE IS a huge man, swarthy, pock-marked, ponderous in movement, and elephantine in size His clothing, from shoes to hats must be made to order. He likes limburger cheese and whatever goes with it. To see him traveling about the country in his wobbly Model T, one would not suspect that he has a wider knowledge and keener wit than many a sleeker fellow. He gets around. His business takes him into almost all the substantial farm homes for miles about, and he swaps ideas with farmers on everything from rat poison to national economics.



His specialty is "peeps." Every month of the year, he is on the road, to get orders for baby chicks; to doctor any ailing chicks, or cull out of the flocks the birds unfit for layers. He even brings a buyer for the marketable poultry when it is ready, and then, like as not, asks when to deliver another hatching. From egg to chick, from chick to egg, he follows the barnyard fowls around the calendar.

"I've got my friends in all corners of the county," he says proudly. "They put me on an extry plate, if I come at dinner time. Some way, they don't forget me." (In truth, nobody could.)

I watched him take a square carton of hatchery chicks from the back of his old car and carry it in. The farm wife met him and led the way to a small, round brooder house at the edge of the back pasture. The air was cold, and the ground wore patches of snow, but a smoke issued from the pipe on top of the brooder house, and within it was warm and snug, with clean litter of peat moss upon the floor.

He put the carton down, and stooped to lift out the downy yellow chicks. Their cheeping gradually ceased as they huddled about the warmth of the hard coal brooder stove at the center of the little room. The odor of newly hatched birds was noticeable. One black-eyed ball of fluff perched upon the man's broad hand, and stretched its neck to peck at a shiny metal button on his coat.

"Bright little devils," I heard him say. "Don't feed them until tomorrow. These just came off, and they'll carry their own feed for a day or so. Then start 'em easy, on that mash I told you about, and give 'em lots of clean water. Your place looks fine—light and clean and comfortable. You'll raise 'em all."

"If I do," she said, "I'll invite you up for a chicken dinner."

He grinned sheepishly. "Nope—thanks. Not me! I don't eat chicken. For me you'd better have roast pork with kraut, or a big thick steak, with onions."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Some of the men were tired. You could tell that. They were in various stages of undress, because they had been there since one o'clock and it was now five. Some of the men had their coats off. Others had their neckties loose and their collars open at the throat. Eddy Duchin sat at the piano and ran his hand through his jet, curly hair.

He said: "Okay, once again for that ending."

The men picked up their instruments. Morton Downey stopped thinking about whatever he was thinking about and stepped up to the mike. Duchin's hand came down and the band, with Downey singing, played about five bars of "Heart and Soul." When it was over Duchin looked up towards the control booth. Harry Von Zell, the production man, nodded to him, and then Duchin dismissed the band.

* * *

WE WERE sitting in the control booth, studio 3B, watching the rehearsal with Von Zell, and several agency officials, and Durelle Alexander, the little Dallas, Tex., girl who is Duchin's vocalist. Then Duchin and Morton Downey were coming into the booth, and Duchin yelled, "What was it, Harry, what was it?"

"A couple of clinkers sneaked in there," Von Zell told him. A "clinker" is a bad note. Duchin looked surprised. "Can't understand it," he said.

"Oh, it's okay now. You're all right now," Von Zell assured him.

"I hope so," Duchin said. "We've been here all afternoon and I'm tired. It costs a lot of money to keep these men on rehearsals, Harry."

"But it can't go out over the air unless it's right." There was a lot of good-natured heckling, and then Eddy said, "How did it go? For time, I mean?"

One of the men in the control booth put his forefinger on his nose. That means "Right on the nose" or "right on time." Sometimes during a broadcast you'll see production men signal an orchestra leader in this manner. Then he hasn't anything to worry about. If the show is running a little ahead of schedule he makes a motion with two hands as if he were pulling candy or playing an accordion. That means to stretch it out a little. If the show is behind schedule he makes a motion similar to the way you crank a car or turn an egg-beater. That tells the orchestra leader to step up the tempo, that he's running behind time.

THERE must be a thousand such signals which radio men know and use every day. You have to hang around and watch a lot of rehearsals to get onto them. Duchin was running his hand through his hair again. It was his show—or would be when it went on the air at 9:30. He guessed it was okay. He said, "Come on, I'm buying a drink." So we all went downstairs to a restaurant and had a glass of something or other—all, that is, except Morton Downey, who ordered a big bowl of ice cream. He is very fond of ice cream. He will order it four or five times a day, or every time you pass a restaurant, if you go inside. He just can't say no to ice cream.

Duchin said, "you hear a guy a half hour on the air and you think that's all there is to it—a half hour. But we've been working since one o'clock—and it'll be after midnight before we're through. I'm going to catch a little shuteye." Downey said, "I better call Barbara." Barbara is his wife. So Duchin got up and went out, and Downey went off to look for a telephone, and the rest of us said "so long" and scattered here and there. It was just that sort of afternoon.

CHAPTER XV

As Bernice looked at the boy's bandaged head and at his mouth, grimly closed, she was grateful that Dr. Fenwick thought it safe to keep him in her home instead of sending him to a hospital and thus Nancy and she would avoid unpleasant publicity.

She said, "He's only a boy. Somebody loves him. I'll take care of him as if he were some one I love, too. He's very young. And his being half starved is probably the reason Nancy managed to lift him into the car."

"He's going to wake up with a terrific headache and wonder where he is," the doctor said, chuckling. "Some of these cases don't remember who they are. Then you really have something on your hands. He couldn't wish to be in better hands than yours." He arose. "I'll have to leave him now but I'll be back later and see how he is."

"I won't leave him a minute. But before you go, will you take him upstairs. To Nancy's bedroom."

At ten o'clock that night when he returned, he found both Bernice and Nancy beside the bed.

"He opened his eyes," Bernice said, "and looked around. Then he went back to sleep. He's a fine looking boy. He isn't a tramp, doctor."

"I hope he'll be appreciative of your care and vigilance."

* * *

Mother and daughter stayed beside the bed all night. When Tod opened his eyes or when he moaned between clenched teeth, it was Nancy who got up and went to him.

Bernice said, "You were always one to go out of your way to help people, dear."

"And he's my charge, Mother. Perhaps—perhaps we won't think so much about Alix and father, with him to care for. Have you heard from her?"

"I believe she telephoned me but I told Jenny I wasn't at home to any one. We may be judging her too harshly. After all, your father is a very attractive man even to a girl of Alix's age and she's had so little in her life."

"She's still a false friend. She wants only his money."

Bernice glanced at Tod. "I wonder who he is, poor boy. No doubt a mother or a sister wonder where he is and worry terribly about him. Perhaps they're not sleeping because of him."

They were having coffee when the doctor came in early in the morning.

"I looked through his clothes before I came up," he said. "There's nothing by which we can identify him."

"It doesn't matter who he is," Bernice said. "He's our charge and our patient. Nancy and I need to be busy now."

* * *

Several days later Tod opened his eyes, tried to remember, and wondered where he was. Vaguely he remembered the three faces that had bent over him, the face of an elderly man, the woman with dark eyes, and a girl with very blue eyes. In these, his first moments of lucidity, he realized that he had been injured that day in the rain and that he was in a strange room, undoubtedly a girl's room. His head ached horribly.

Suddenly the girl was standing in the doorway with a tray in her hand. She wore a blue dress and a blue ribbon held back her brown hair. When she saw him looking at her, her eyes filled with tears. But she smiled.

He stared rudely. It was! Yes, he couldn't be mistaken . . . It was . . . Nancy Lawrence!

"What happened?" he asked. His voice sounded strange to him. "What . . ."

Putting the tray on a table, she went to the bed.

"Oh, you're better! I'm so glad! This is the first time you've said anything." Briefly she told him what had happened and added, "It's my fault. I wanted to keep you here so that you'd get the best of care. I didn't want it to get in the papers. I wasn't driving fast that day but it was raining so hard. Please forgive me?"

Forgive her, he thought cynically. What were a few bruises and an aching head when you could lie in a room filled with sunshine and flowers and see a tray of food meant for you! He felt that he had slept for a century and had awakened in another world, a new and better world. He felt rested and fed and sheltered.

"Are you hungry? You were hungry that day, weren't you?"

"I hadn't eaten for two days."

Her eyes were wide. "Where were you going? Who are you? No. Don't tell me now. I won't ask you questions when you're still so weak. Later you can tell me. Jenny is a wonderful cook and in no time you'll be strong and feeling fine. The doctor says your injuries aren't serious.

He touched his head. "Not this either?"

"No. You ate and drank but you didn't open your eyes."

"I can feed myself now," he said.

* * *

Bernice came in then with Dr. Fenwick. Tod frowned, recognizing Bernice at once as the woman he had met at Alix's one Sunday afternoon. Did she know him? It had been in the half darkness that they met with his head bandaged and pieces of adhesive tape over his face . . .

Nancy said, "Well, doctor, you see what our good work has done."

"As I said before," said the amiable doctor, thrusting a thermometer between Tod's lips, "I hope this young man is appreciative of your care and vigilance. You'll be a brand new man in a few weeks, young fellow, thanks to the good care and food you've had and will get."

Bernice said to Tod, smiling, "We're so glad you are feeling better."

No, Tod thought, she didn't recognize him.

They left him to sleep. When he awoke again, the moon was shining through the window and there was a sweet scent of honeysuckle in the room. Beside him, her face pale in the moonlight, her short brown hair fitting her small head like a cap, Nancy sat holding his hand. Tod was conscious of the warmth and smallness of that hand.

For days they talked cheerfully to him and brought him trays with delicious food. Often at night when he awoke he found Nancy beside the bed, holding his hand. When she was not there he missed her and wished she would come. Then one night he told himself that he must leave as soon as he could because he was in love with Nancy Lawrence. He had run away from Alix because he did not want to meet Nancy, did not want her to think of him as "Alix's worthless brother." Now he loved her, loved a girl who was too rich and too good for him.

With the help of Dr. Fenwick, Tod went outdoors for the first time to a deep soft chair beneath a tall shade tree. Nancy followed with pillows. Bernice drew up a chair and took her knitting from a bag.

"We don't want to be inquisitive," Bernice said. "It really doesn't matter to us who you are. But you must have people who are worried about you because they haven't heard from you. We'll get in touch with them if you'll tell us."

"We don't even know your name," Nancy said. She was wearing the blue dress again and the blue ribbon that held back her thick brown hair.

Resting his head on the back of the chair, Tod looked up through the branches of the tall tree, remembering that yesterday when the doctor had dressed his head, he Tod, had said, "I want you to keep my head bandaged until I leave here, doctor. You see, I know who Mrs. Lawrence is but I don't want her to know who I am. I'd like to keep the disguise." The doctor had chuckled, "This is an extraordinary case. Well, all right."

Now he thought of Alix. Why had he hurt her? Was it that he knew he had the power to hurt her because she loved him and, having been hurt himself, there was a grim pleasure in hurting her? He was ashamed now for many things . . . What had happened to him? His eyes, so like Alix's clear eyes, looked at Nancy's hair stirring on her neck. What he had thought would never happen to him, to Tod Barton, the worthless brother of a fine sister, had happened. Out of suffering it had happened. He loved Nancy Lawrence more than he had ever loved any one in his life. But his worthlessness mocked him.

Bernice waited patiently for him to speak. Nancy fixed her blue eyes on him.

"I don't want anybody to know where I am . . . just yet," he said finally. "They'd come and get me." He smiled. "I like it here. I'd rather be here."

"Um, Jenny's cooking," Nancy said.

"Before I go, I'll tell you," Tod said.

"Won't you tell us where you were going that day?"

"I was on my way to New York to look for a job. I'd been living on my own . . . on my family." He smiled. "That bump on my head made me snap out of it. I feel better than I've ever felt. It's funny."

"You don't have to tell us until you want to," Bernice said. "Perhaps I can find you a job around here or in the city."

He did not answer. Closing his eyes, feeling the sun warm his face, he wondered what he should do. It was the open road for him again toward New York and the sea. Why did he have to be in love with a rich girl who was being kind to him because she had run him down? He cursed his bad luck again.

Could she make him stay if she asked him. Nancy wondered. For days everything had been centered about him, and when she went to sit beside him and hold his hand, it was not only to give him the comfort of her presence but to receive comfort for herself from the large, rough hand that seemed to grip hers. Perhaps his helplessness had made her love him. Perhaps this was no different from the compassion she had felt for other helpless people. It couldn't be . . . no, it couldn't be that she was actually in love with this tall, fair-haired boy, this jobless, wandering stranger!

ASKS DAMAGES

Woman Injured On Fall On Ice Sues Hotel for $2,591.

Damages totaling $2,591 for injuries she suffered last Nov. 29 in a fall on the sidewalk near the Fairview hotel are sought by Mrs. Gladys Hammett, Mansfield, in a suit on file today in common pleas court.

Naming Edward Schmutzler and Earl Bates, owners of the hotel, as defendants, Mrs. Hammett contends in her petition that snow and ice which had been permitted to pack on the sidewalk at the side of the hotel caused her to fall. She suffered fractures of her right wrist and hip injuries, her petition states. She is represented by Atty. Joseph A. Bayer.

CONFER FRIDAY ON ROAD PLANS

Trustees From 6 Townships to Meet With Commissioners on 1939 Program.

Trustees from six townships in the central and northern sections of Richland county are scheduled to confer Friday with county commissioners and County Engineer Howard C. Sword on township road plans for this year.

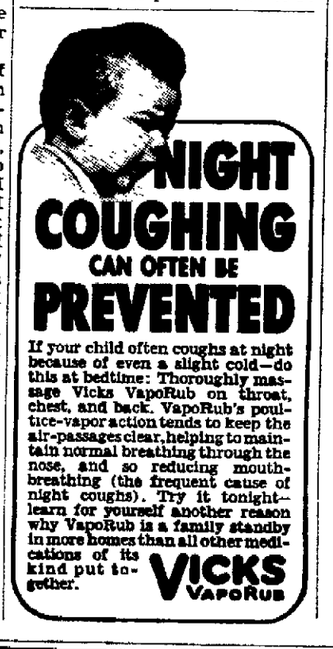
The trustees will submit their 1939 road construction and maintenance programs to the commissioners and engineer and make their requests for financial help from the county for road work.

Officials from six other townships were called in last week and were promised help up to $2,000 per township in carrying out their road programs.

Sessions will be held tomorrow at the courthouse on the following schedule:

Sandusky township, 9 a. m.; Springfield township, 10 a. m.; Madison township, 11 a. m.; Mifflin township, 1 p. m; Sharon township, 2 p. m.; and Jackson township, 3 p. m.

Honey mixed with grapefruit and seeded white cherries makes a refreshing appetizer.



NIGHT COUGHING CAN OFTEN BE PREVENTED

If your child often coughs at night because of even a slight cold—do this at bedtime: Thoroughly massage Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action tends to keep the air-passages clear, helping to maintain normal breathing through the nose, and so reducing mouth-breathing (the frequent cause of night coughs). Try it tonight—learn for yourself another reason why VapoRub is a family standby in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

STERILIZATION OF MENTALLY DEFECTIVES URGED FOR OHIO

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Sterilization of mental defectives was recommended by Dr. J. E. Bateman, Ohio's commissioner of mental diseases, in an address here.

Decrying the steady increase of patients at mental institutions, Dr. Bateman declared, "sterilization of congential defectives would immediately reduce our problem."

"The principle which allows for compulsory vaccination is broad enough to provide for the cutting of the fallopian tubes," he said.

"There is no hope for the lowest group—idiots and the monsters, the clock cases without works to make them run."

Of these, he said, "there is somewhere a biological limit to altruism," and pointed out the paradox that "society kills its strongest in war and saves its worst in institutions."

"But if the duty of society is to keep alive all who are born," he added, "then society should have the authority to decide who and how many shall be born.

"I am not recommending a higher death rate among the unproductive. I am recommending a lower birth rate. Too many of the unproductive in society are employed in reproduction."

STILL THOUGHT HE WAS HUNTED

Russian Fugutive Hid In Woods For Six Years.

GRENOBLE, France — (AP) — It took this winter's record-breaking cold spell to bring Jean Reprintzeff, a Russian, back to civilization.

Six years ago Reprintzeff was sought by police for stealing fruit from a store. He fled to the woods near Grenoble and found shelter in a packing case, five feet long and two and a half feet wide.

He remained there for six years emerging only at night to do chores for neighboring farmers to earn food. Forced by the intense cold to apply for relief, he explained he had fled for fear af a jail sentence and deportation. He was informed the charges had been dropped five years before.

'SONG OF YEARS' TELLS STORY OF PIONEER IOWA

Bess Aldrich's Novel, Added by Library, Has Civil War as Background.

Bess Streeter Aldrich, one of the most readable of the popular fiction writers, has turned out another memorable novel of pioneer Iowa in "Song of Years," which has just been published in book form after having been issued as a magazine serial. It's one of the new fiction books at the Public library.

The turbulent days preceding and during the Civil war set the background for the story of the Martin family, with its seven daughters. The love of Wayne Lockwood for Suzanne Martin, the political activities of Suzanne's father, Jeremiah, the everyday doings of her sisters and brothers, form a picture of sturdy farm life in the nineteenth century.

"When Women Love" by Edna De La Pasture depicts, through the medium of three short novels, a variety of customs, moral codes, and ways of thinking, against three period backgrounds, from 1875 till today.

"Begin No Day" by Wellington Roe is a story of the Connecticut hatting industry. Chick Vail, an inexperienced young man struggling to save his father's factory which is already overburdened with debt, is thwarted by the efforts of unscrupulous leaders of manufacturers associations and professional labor organizers when he tries to give his workmen a square deal.

Other fiction includes "Danger Signal" by Bottome, "Murder on Safari," Huxley; "There Is No Return," Blackmon; "Tomorrow's Promise," Balley; "Affairs of the Ginger Lei," Knight.

Memoirs Tops Non-Fiction.

"The Memoirs of Sir Ronald Storrs" which heads the non-fiction is an important and stimulating book, giving not only the interesting personal life of a great statesman, but his governmental service as well. Sir Ronald was for years one of Great Britain's foremost colonial administrators. He has served in a number of posts, becoming Military Governor of Jerusalem in 1917 when General Allenby took the city, and later was appointed civil governor. He is credited with having contributed more than any one else to its sanitation and restoration. T. E. Lawrence considered him "the most brilliant Englishman in the Near East."

"Unforgotten Years" by Logan Pearsall Smith is the story of his American education, giving a picture of the U. S. half a century ago. He recaptures in this book the pleasures of a literary career and his friendships with many noted writers.

"I Find the Missing" is the story of the Skip Tracers Co. and its 34-year-old-head, Daniel M. Eisenberg, who has developed a special technique in searching for missing persons.

Alfred Kreynborg's new poetic allegory, "The Planets," made radio history when it was performed over N. B. C. from the Hayden Planetarium June 6. The play is a strong plea for world peace, but as the action unfolds the reader is left to draw his own conclusions.

The favorite dishes of many of the leading figures of American life make "The Stag at Ease," compiled by Marian Squire, a treasure trove for the hostess who aims to please.

Other non-fiction: "Mr. Doley at His Best," Dunne; "Marihuana: America's New Drug Problem," Walton; "Christianity and Economics," Stamp; "Race, Class and Party," Lewinson; "The Family: A Dynomic Interpretation," Waller; "The Family In the Making," Messer; "Motion Picture Sound Engineering," "Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences; "Ten years Under the Earth," Casteret; Audel's New Automobile Guide," "New Republic Anthology, 1915-1935," "Oxford Book of American Prose," "Northwest Verse: An Anthology," Merriam; "Poet's Gold," Ross.

MILITARY ORBIT OF PHILIPPINES SEEN GROWING

'Open Door' Controversy in China Leads to Possible Policy Revisions.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Military and naval experts, scrutinizing the Far Eastern situation and the possibility that China's "Open Door" may be permanently closed to the western world, have indicated that the Philippines would be an important factor in determining the ultimate policy of the United States toward China.

The Philippines, experts said, constitute an available hostage to the Japanese, if the western powers should seek to enforce protests against Japanese policy in China.

The Philippines, on the other hand, might be a valuable military and strategic base whose strengthening would place the United States in a potent position in the Far Eastern military picture.

These factors are said to influence high government officials in mapping their approach to the Chinese situation. It is extremely doubtful, informed sources indicated, whether any drastic steps would be taken in the Far Eastern situation, until careful evaluation of possible eventualities had been made.

Plans Are Overhauled.

Military men are overhauling their plans and studies of possible action in the Far East as an indication to policy-making officials of what would happen in case diplomatic approach proved useless.

Some officials are said to have urged that no drastic diplomatic action be taken without some backlog of assurance that the military be theoretically capable of resisting "overt" action.

In this connection the Philippine national defense program once again is being studied by military experts here. The plan, which will not be completely realized until 1946, indicates an available Philippine trained reserve of 500,000 men, and an intricate system of defense highways to enable speedy mobilization at any required point in the archipelago.

This defense program, whose details were developed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, former chief of staff of the army, would enable the Philippines to act as a "time buffer in any military emergency."

Manila Defenses Strong.

Military experts believe the Philippines will be able to present a strong defense for a short time against any inland invasion. No attempt would be made to hold coastal cities where naval guns would be effective, with the exception of Manila where the mighty harbor fortress of Corregador would make a successful naval attack against the Philippine metropolis extremely difficult.

Military experts said that the Philippine plan of defense would be similar to that developed by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in his "cushion campaign" against the Japanese.

It likewise is planned to transplant large numbers of Philippine families from the densely populated areas of Mindanao and other strategic islands.

The importance of the Philippines as a factor in the diplomatic campaign to maintain a commercially free China scarcely can be overemphasized, some military experts said.

The United States and Great Britain must both look to the Philippines as the first military consideration in dealing with possible involvements in the Far East these experts believe.

Paralyzed Youth Saved By 'Lung' Parents Devised

LONDON—(U.P.)—A father and mother have saved the life of their son after doctors had all but abandoned hope.

For nine days and nights they took turns operating a special apparatus which enabled the boy, who was stricken with infantile paralysis to breathe.

Gorden Bennett, 9, contracted the disease last August. Recently the paralysis spread to his lungs. A swinging apparatus, which operated by levers, expanded and contracted the lungs, was constructed and the boy's parents volunteered to work the machine.

Day and night they worked. At last their efforts were rewarded. Gordon's lungs became strong enough to allow him to be removed from the machine. He is well on the road to recovery now.

CARELESS TROUT IN HOT WATER

37 Found Dead In Hot Springs In Wyoming.

CASPER, Wyo. —(AP)— Thirty-seven large trout recently were found, scalded to death in the boiling waters of hot springs near Alcova dam.

Deputy Sheriff James Derrington, who investigated, said the trout apparently swam upstream from their usual haunts. He was unable to determine why they swam into the hot water.

"They must have been warned before the water became hot enough to kill them," Derrington said.

FASHIONS OWN COFFIN

BROCKTON, Mass. — (U.P.) — Though Charles A. Lapman, 69, never was a Boy Scout, his motto apparently is: "Be Prepared." He recently finished building his own casket—lined with blue and trimmed with gold.

SCHOOLMEN TO DINE TUESDAY

National Education Chairman to Speak at Meeting Tuesday.

T. D. Martin of Washington, D. C., membership chairman of the National Education association, will address members of the Mansfield Schoolmasters' club at a meeting Tuesday evening at Madison high school.

Martin's talk will follow a dinner at 6 p. m. and will be open to all school teachers in Mansfield and Richland county, J. C. Stout, program chairman of the meeting said. The association will have as its guests members of the Marion and Ashland schoolmasters groups.

Following the talk a basketball game will be played between the Marion and Mansfield teachers. Music during the evening will be furnished by Dale Bechtel, violinist, Richard Sparks, pianist, and Robert Earley, vocalist, of the Senior high school music department.

AGED BLANKET

Spanish-American War Vet Keeps Army Wrapper In Use.

WINCHESTER, Ky.—(INS)—The old blanket may have been in use 40 years or more, but it is still warm to the body and heart of ex-First Sgt. Wirt C. Steele, of Co. K, 2nd U. S. Infantry, Spanish-American War.

Steele, now retired, still sleeps under the blanket—a blue, regulation affair. The blanket kept him cozy in Tampa, Fla., 'way back in '98, and on many treks into the jungles and swamps in the Philippines, not to mention the nights he slept anywhere from Montauk, Long Island, to Fort Presidio, Calif.
